STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR.
OLYMPIA, January 8, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington:

I have the honor to transmit to you herewith, for your consideration, a copy of the report of the board of commissioners for the State of Washington, for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States.

This commission was appointed pursuant to the provision of chapter 59, Session Laws of 1905, and its membership comprises Honorable Charles E. Shepard and Honorable Alfred Battie, of Seattle, and Honorable W. V. Tanner, the Attorney General of Washington.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

REPORT OF BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS FOR THE PROMOTION OF UNIFORMITY OF LEGISLATION IN THE UNITED STATES.

To His Excellency, Hon. Ernest Lister, Governor, and to the Honorable the Legislature of the State of Washington:

The board of commissioners for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States, appointed pursuant to the provisions of chapter 59 of the Session Laws of 1906, hereby respectfully report as follows:

Since the biennial session of the legislature in 1915, the usual annual conference of uniform law commissioners from the different states have been held. The conference for 1915 was held at Salt Lake City, Utah, in the month of August and was attended by Mr. Shepard. The conference for 1916 was held at Chicago in August, but none of the commissioners were able to attend it. At the 1915 conference the proposed uniform act for registration of titles, commonly known as the "Torrens System," was finally adopted and recommended to the state legislatures for passage, but as this state already has a "Torrens Act" which is in satisfactory form and works well, no farther remarks about said uniform act are needed.

At the 1916 conference there was finally adopted and recommended to the state legislatures for enactment, a uniform limited partnership act and also a uniform act for the extradition of persons of unsound mind.

These proposed acts, as all previous ones prepared and recommended by the uniform law conference, deserve careful consideration at the hands of the legislature and also of the legal fraternity, but we do not think that said two acts adopted at the 1915 and 1916 conferences need enactment in this state until after several other of the uniform acts are adopted.

As a brief summary of the growth of the uniform law movement, and of what has been accomplished in that direction, we submit the following facts:

This movement began at the instance of the American Bar Association, and only in the form of a committee thereof, twenty six years ago. For several years it was very slight and inconsiderable, and its work attracted very slight attention from the bar and state legislatures all over the country. But in late years it has grown remarkably and has shown great vitality and value in bringing about uniformity on subjects of common concern to all of the people of this great nation, irrespective of state lines. Every state, territory, federal district and federal possession of the United States has appointed and sent to the annual conferences its official representatives to take part in the meeting, and has thereby recognized and approved the work of the conference. In many cases the state legislatures have appropriated adequate funds for the expenses of commissioners to attend the conferences, but in none have they appropriated, or so far as we know, been asked for funds to pay commissioners for their services. In a few cases the legislatures have also appropriated a sum to donate to the conference towards its general expenses.

What has been actually accomplished by these conferences, which occur annually and last for from four to seven days of steady work, by a body usually ranging from forty to sixty members in attendance, which disposes of and debates, very much after the manner of a legislature, the bills prepared and laid before it by its committees? The feature of partisan politics so common in legislative action is entirely absent, and great effort is made to attain unanimity of opinion on all important points. The bills prepared by the committees involve much labor, and, the more important ones, the expensive assistance of experts and specialists on their subjects during the year between the sessions.

What has been accomplished by these expenses and the labors of the committees? Very much, as this brief summary will show:

The negotiable instruments law has been adopted by forty-eight states, territories, federal districts and federal possessions.

The warehouse receipts act has been adopted by thirty states, territories, federal districts and federal possessions.

The sales of goods act has been adopted by eleven states, territories, federal districts and federal possessions.

The bills of lading act has been adopted by eleven states, territories, federal districts and federal possessions.

The stock transfer act has been adopted by nine states, territories, federal districts and federal possessions.

Besides the above acts, and also besides the four which we have enumerated as adopted by the conference of 1914, the following have been adopted and recommended to the states in previous years, viz.: A brief divorce act, regulating procedure but not causes for divorce; a child labor act; a family desertion act; a probate of foreign wills act; a marriage evasion act; a general partnership act, a workmen's compensation act; an act to prohibit desecration of the national and state flags; a registration of titles act, and an act to provide for the extradition of persons of unsound mind.

The small number of states which have adopted the stock transfer, sales of goods and bills of lading acts is not an indication of their demerits or unpopularity with the legislatures of the states, but the difference in numbers is due simply to the comparatively brief time elapsed since their adoption by the conference. The negotiable instruments act has been before the country since 1896, and the warehouse receipts act since 1906. The others have been adopted much more recently. The only two which have been adopted in this state are the negotiable instruments act in 1899, and the warehouse receipts act in 1913.

We respectfully recommend for passage at the coming session of the legislature, the sales of goods act, the bills of lading act and the stock transfer act, of all which copies have been prepared for introduction at the coming session.

We also beg leave respectfully to recommend to the legislature that this report be printed in sufficient numbers to be brought to the attention not only of all the members of the legislature but of lawyers and commercial bodies and business men who will be interested in the subject generally and particularly in the bills which we recommend for enactment at this session.

We beg leave also to earnestly recommend a reasonable appropriation for the expenses of the conference. This is a work carried on at considerable expense, for which the American Bar Association makes annually a substantial appropriation and also the legislatures of a number of the states have appropriated sums ranging from one hundred to five hundred dollars as a contribution towards the expenses, in addition to paying expenses of the commissioners attending from those states. By the terms of chapter 59 of Session Laws of 1905, providing for the appointment of commissioners from this state, the expenses of attendance of one commissioner at each conference are directed to be paid and proper appropriations have been made therefor. But in addition to that, we think that this state can afford to assist this work which is carried on by the American Bar Association and the commissioners attending the conferences from the different states, not from any personal or selfish motive, but simply from an earnest desire to assist in the reformation and improvement of the law and also to show that the states are alive to their duty of such improvement and are anxious to prevent the absorption of all governmental powers relating to any matters of common concern into the hands of the federal government—a process of consolidation of power which we believe is much to be deprecated.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Dated December 20, 1916.

Resolution by Senators Cornwell, Cox, Barnes, Judd, Karshner, Northland, Chase, French, Cleary, Groff, Landon, Smith (A. A.), Phipps, Boner, Palmer, Ferryman, Brown, Smith (Joseph H.), Jones, Kleeb, Brand, McMillan, Steiner, Wells, Taylor, Wray, Iverson, Myers, Ghent, Kuykendall, Davis (Walter S.), Nichols, Carlyon:

Whereas, There was filed with the Secretary of State on the 27th day of November, 1916, an initiative bill having for its purpose the changing of the seat of government of this state; and

Whereas, Having failed to procure the necessary signatures to initiate said bill to the legislature it is currently reported that the real proponents of this measure intend to carry the fight for capitol removal into this session of the legislature; and

Whereas, Under authority vested by the organic act creating the territory, Governor Isaac I. Stevens designated Olympia as the capital and called the first session of the territorial legislature at Olympia on January 30, 1854, and

Whereas, The territorial legislature subsequently confirmed the action of the first executive in locating the capital at Olympia; and

Whereas, The question of removal was submitted to a vote of the people of the territory on the 8th day of July, 1861, which election resulted in Olympia being chosen over twelve competitors; and

Whereas, The state constitution adopted in 1889 submitted the question of the permanent location of the seat of government to the electors and at this election Olympia lead all contending cities; and

Whereas, The state legislature in 1890, under constitutional requirement, again submitted the question to the electors of the state and at this election Olympia received a majority of over 23,000 votes over its other two competitors and carried every county in the state but six; and

Whereas, It would seem that this question has been amply submitted to the people of the state and that at this time there is no general demand on the part of the people of this state for any such action; and

Whereas, A controversy of this nature will engender strife among the members, create factions, influence, color and interfere with the consideration of other legislation of great importance to the people of this state, and would be against the best interest and common good of the people of the state; and

Whereas, The interest of the citizens and taxpayers of this state demand that no factional strife or political alignment be permitted to interfere or thwart the consideration of important legislation which will come before this session; therefore

Be It Resolved, By the Senate of the fifteenth session of the legislature of the State of Washington that the best interests of the state demand that no submission of capital removal be considered or authorized at this session, and the Senate will not consider any such bill or resolution.

Resolved further, That the Attorney General be and he is hereby authorized to employ two competent lawyers, such lawyers to be paid one thousand dollars each in full for their services and expenses for the entire legislative session from the appropriations made for the expenses of the legislature.

On motion of Senator Taylor, the rules were suspended, and Senate joint resolution No. 1 was read second and third times.

Senator Wray moved that the figures "$1,000.00" be stricken and the figures "$125.00" be inserted in lieu thereof.

Senator Brown moved to amend the resolution by reducing the amount from two thousand dollars to one thousand dollars and "hire two lawyers for the last thirty days of the session."

Senators Hutchinson, Nichols, Taylor, Chase, Wells, Boner and Iverson demanded a roll call on the motion by Senator Brown.

The chief clerk called the roll of the House, all members being present, except Messrs. Brown, Dwyer, Elliott, Guie and Young.

Chief Justice O. G. Ellis administered the oath of office to Ernest Lister as Governor of the State of Washington.

Rev. N. M. Temple, of Olympia, offered prayer.

Governor Lister addressed the joint assembly as follows:

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, WASH., January 10, 1917.

Members of the Senate and the House of Representatives:

Selected by my fellow citizens for a second time to represent them in the highest position within their gift, I take this opportunity to express my deep gratitude and appreciation for the honor bestowed upon me. It is my hope that I may be able to serve them worthily and that, at the close of my term, I shall have, to a small degree at least, rendered service that has been of some real benefit to the state and its people.

Finances.

During the four years just passed, I have endeavored to bring about a better condition in the financial affairs of the state and feel today that the situation existing, in connection with the state's finances, justifies the statement that with the beginning of the year 1917, we are in better financial condition than ever before in the state's history.

The financial statement which follows shows that there was an overdraft in the general fund at the close of business on December 31, 1912, amounting to $369,327.69. At the close of business on December 31, 1914, there was a balance of $400,010.37 in the general fund, and at the close of business on December 31, 1916, the general fund shows a balance on hand amounting to $1,083,674.37. While this fund will be called upon to meet the current expenses of state government during the next three months, and also the expenses incurred in connection with the biennial session of your honorable body, yet I feel sure that with the taxes which will be paid in prior to April 1st, we will begin the next fiscal year on that date with a balance on hand, in the general fund, of not less than $1,000,000.00.

Retirement of Outstanding Bonds.

With this most excellent condition existing it appears to me that your honorable body would be following the lines of good business judgment by authorizing the retirement of all bonds now outstanding against the state. As I view the matter, it is much better to take this action at a time when we have funds on hand, not required for the general operating expenses of the state government, than to allow the bonds to remain an indebtedness against the state until their maturity, with the possibility at that time of finding it necessary to make a special levy for the purpose of raising moneys to pay them off.

The only bonds outstanding which are properly payable from the general fund are the normal school bonds, amounting to $206,024.00. While these bonds are not yet due, under their terms the state now has the right to retire them at any interest-paying date. I strongly urge that an appropriation of $209,114.36 be made by your honorable body from the general fund, for the purpose of retiring these bonds and paying the interest, so that on June 10, 1917, this bonded indebtedness can be entirely paid off.

The only other issue of bonds now outstanding against the state is that representing the balance of the purchase price, yet unpaid, for the Wenatchee bridge. This balance amounts to $50,000.00 and is properly payable from the public highway fund. I recommend that an appropriation of $52,000.00 be made from the public highway fund to be used in the retirement of these bonds and the payment of interest due. Under the provisions of the bonds, the legislature would be called upon at this session to appropriate $28,480.00 for the payment of bonds which will become due during the next two years and the payment of interest upon the bonds. The additional appropriation required to retire all of the bonds amounts to only $23,520.00.

The retirement of these two issues of bonds will place the state in the position of not having a single dollar of outstanding bonded indebtedness, and I am sure all will agree with me that this is a most desirable condition for the state to achieve.

The following is a statement of the moneys received by me as Governor and transmitted to the State Treasurer, from January 1, 1915, to and including December 31, 1916:

Capitol Building Fund.

Four years ago the legislature passed an act authorizing the issuance of bonds against the capitol building fund to the amount of $4,000,000.00, the proceeds to be used in paying back to the general fund of the state the amounts advanced from that fund in the past; to take up all outstanding warrants; for the completion of the Temple of Justice, and for other construction work necessary in connection with a group of capitol building.

Under the provisions of this act, the guarantee of the state was given to the bonds, and to interest which might accrue thereon. To determine the legality of this action by the legislature, the questions involved were submitted to the supreme court, and in its decision the court held the act to be unconstitutional with respect to the guarantee by the state.

The legislature of 1915 passed another act, providing for the issuance of bonds to the amount of $4,000,000.00, and in that act endeavored to overcome the legal objections to the act of 1913 by providing that the state guarantee only the interest on the bonds. This act appropriated $1,500,000.00 from the funds received from the sale of bonds, to be used in paying back to the general fund the moneys advanced from that fund; to take up outstanding warrants and to complete the Temple of Justice.

Many efforts were made by the state capitol commission to dispose of these bonds and about a year ago it was decided to advertise them for sale. Bids were submitted and the best bid accepted by the capitol commission. All of the bids received were based upon a favorable decision by the supreme court, covering the legality of the bonds. The questions involved were presented to the court, and its decision held against proceeding along the lines contemplated.

So that every possible avenue, which would assist in securing a complete presentation of the case to the supreme court, might be covered, it was decided by the capitol commission, after consultation with the Attorney General, to obtain the services of Caldwell, Masslich & Reed, prominent bond attorneys of New York, to assist the state's attorney in the preparation of the form of bond, and also to assist him in the presentation to the supreme court of the questions involved. This firm was decided upon by the capitol commission because of the fact that its opinion, if favorable, would be acceptable to bond buyers. An arrangement was made to pay for the services of this firm from the proceeds of the bond sale, had it been possible to sell the bonds. Under the decision of the court, this cannot be done, and while the state is in no way legally bound to compensate Caldwell, Masslich & Reed, the capitol commission recommends that an appropriation be made by the legislature for this purpose. I join in this recommendation.

I have had prepared and am herewith submitting statements showing the condition of the capitol building fund and the estimated value of the timber and lands yet remaining in the capitol grant:

The capitol situation presents one of the serious problems before your honorable body for consideration. Practically all of the state departments are now conducting their business in crowded quarters. During the period when the legislature is not in session, much of the space you occupy is used by other departments. This necessitates obtaining quarters outside the capitol building for such departments during the sessions of the legislature. The transfer of office records to and from rooms not suitable for their proper care and protection may result in serious loss to the state, for it would be impossible to replace many of these records should they be destroyed. The two decisions of the supreme court clearly show that it is impossible for the state to guarantee bonds issued against the capitol building fund to the amount required for the payment of the present indebtedness against the capitol building fund, and for the completion and construction of necessary buildings. This can only be done by a vote of the people.

To endeavor to dispose of all of the lands and timber in the capitol grant immediately, for the purpose of securing funds to pay all the indebtedness now standing against the capitol building fund and to complete the capitol buildings, could but result in the sale of the property at much less than its true value and, in my opinion, such a plan would not produce sufficient funds to pay off the indebtedness and construct the buildings necessary. It is the opinion of the capitol commission, and in this I concur, that the greatest returns from the sale of capitol lands and timber will be secured by disposing of the property at such times as there may be a demand for it. This demand is steadily increasing but not to a sufficient degree to justify us in believing that any new construction could be undertaken and paid for from the moneys received from this source for some time. I may say that the lands and timber sold during the past four years have brought a figure greater than the estimated value.

Many citizens have suggested that capitol bonds be issued and purchased by the state with moneys on hand in the permanent funds of the state. The state constitution fixes the class of securities in which the permanent funds may be invested, and in its decision covering the act of 1913, the supreme court held that the state board of finance could not legally invest these funds in capitol building bonds.

A suggestion has been made that the legislature might authorize the investment of moneys held in the accident fund of the industrial insurance department in capitol bonds, as there is no constitutional provision fixing the class of securities in which this money shall be invested. $1,608,100 belonging to this fund is now invested in bonds. It is the opinion of those making the suggestion that by the state purchasing capitol building bonds in the amount of approximately $1,500,000.00 with moneys in the reserve for pensions in the accident fund, the balance of the bond issue could be sold in the open market. I have not given sufficient consideration to this suggestion to express my views regarding it, but mention it at this time so that the legislature may give it such consideration as it deems proper.

On January 1, 1917, the outstanding indebtedness against the capitol building fund amounted to $1,125,773.99. The estimate of the architects for the completion of the temple of justice shows that approximately $550,000.00 will be required for this purpose. The capitol commission believes that the building can be completed, without in any way impairing its usefulness or architectural beauty, by the expenditure of $450,000.00. The completion of this building, however, would not add to the available office space. It is now occupied by all of the departments for which it was intended.

If any new work should be undertaken, the next great need of the state would be the construction of a capitol building. The estimate of the cost of such a building, made by the capitol commission, is $1,750,000.00. The improvement of the grounds and the purchase of two blocks of land to be used as an entrance to the capitol grounds from Main street, which was authorized by the last legislature, would fix the amount necessary for the payment of outstanding indebtedness, the completion of the temple of justice, the construction of a new capitol building, purchase of land and improvement of grounds, at not less than $3,500,000.00. Should such a complete plan as this be decided upon, it would also be advisable to construct a central heating and lighting plant. I am of the opinion that $4,000,000.00 will be required to do all of the work necessary to bring about a completion of buildings to the point where the state's needs will be cared for for many years to come, and to pay off present indebtedness. I may add that the capitol site contains approximately thirty acres. All streets formerly platted and running through the site have been vacated by the city of Olympia at the request of the capitol commission.

Should your honorable body desire to give consideration to this matter, the capitol commission stands ready to furnish you with all the information it has at hand and to assist you to the fullest degree in its power.

Constitutional Convention.

In my message delivered to the legislature of 1915, I strongly urged that action be taken providing for the submission of the question of calling a constitutional convention to the voters at the general election held in November last. No action was taken by the legislature toward carrying out this recommendation. With each passing year the need of a new state constitution becomes more apparent. A simplification of state government cannot be brought about to the degree necessary excepting by the adoption of a new state constitution. A constitutional convention could give consideration to many matters affecting the management and operation of public affairs. There is a growing sentiment in favor of some type of commission form of government for the counties of the state. This is but one of many reforms which are necessary to bring about a reduction in the cost of government. I will not take your time in detailing the many reasons why a constitutional convention would be advisable, but would respectfully direct your attention to that part of my message delivered to the legislature of 1915, relating to this important matter.

May I urge that action be taken by your honorable body to start the machinery in motion that will make possible the submission of a new constitution to the people of the state at the earliest possible date.

Preferential Presidential Primary.

I am sure that the great majority of the voters of the state of Washington desire to be allowed to express their preference for their party nominee for president of the United States, and would respectfully recommend the passage of a preferential presidential primary law, so that such expression may be given by the voters.

Non-Partisanship.

Recent elections clearly indicate that the spirit of partisanship, in connection with the selection of public officials, is rapidly disappearing. The people will be better served if it be entirely eliminated, and I beg to recommend the passage of a non-partisan election bill covering all state, county and city officials.

Interest on Delinquent Taxes.

Under our present law, 15 per cent is the rate of interest charged on delinquent taxes. While I appreciate that it might be difficult to secure the prompt payment of taxes if the rate of interest on delinquent taxes were to be reduced to a point equal to that charged in ordinary business, yet I cannot but feel that the present rate is excessive, and recommend that it be reduced to 12 per cent.

Prohibition Law.

The majority recorded against initiative measure number 18, known as the hotel bill, by the voters at the last general election, was 215,036. The majority against initiative measure No. 24, known as the brewers' bill, was 140,556. These majorities clearly indicate a sentiment among the people opposed to conditions such as existed prior to the enactment into law of initiative measure No. 3. Personally I feel that our state ought to follow the lines adopted by the adjoining states of Oregon and Idaho, and its legislature pass a bill that will also make it illegal to import intoxicating liquors into the state. The tendency is clearly toward a nation-wide prohibition; the state of Washington has indicated its views by the advanced steps already taken. The benefit to the people is so apparent that I believe you will be acting wisely if you enact into law at this time, a measure that will bring about absolute prohibition in the state.

Two years ago I urged the legislature to appropriate and place in the hands of the Governor and the Attorney General, $50,000.00, to be used in securing evidence and prosecuting violators of the law known as initiative measure No. 3. I believed then, and I am still of the opinion, that the state ought to render aid to the civil authorities in bringing about a proper enforcement of this law. I again urge that an appropriation be made for this purpose. If you consider the amount recommended two years ago too large, I would suggest that $25,000.00 be appropriated.

Educational Institutions.

There is no more important problem calling for action on the part of your honorable body, than that of fixing the millage tax to be raised for the institutions of higher learning, during the next six years, and bringing about a settlement of the differences existing regarding the duplication of courses of study in the different educational institutions.

For many years these differences have existed and but few sessions of the legislature have escaped having the matter before them in some form. Two years ago much time was occupied by the committees of the legislature in endeavoring to bring about a permanent solution of the problem. An act was passed appointing an educational survey commission consisting of three members of the Senate and three members of the House of Representatives, and directing the commission to make a complete survey and to place its report in the hands of the Governor not later than April 30, 1916. This report was filed, and I am today placing it in the hands of your honorable body. The commission had expected to have printed copies of the report furnished by the federal bureau of education. Up to this time they have not been received and I would suggest, unless you are advised that they will be in your hands in the near future, that it might be advisable to arrange for the printing of this important report, so that all of the members of the legislature can have a copy of it in their possession.

One of the elements entering into the desire for elimination of duplicated courses of study was that of reducing the cost to the taxpayers of maintaining the higher educational institutions. The millage tax, which is now the basis for raising revenue, amounts to 1.05 mills and, based upon the present property valuation of the state, will produce approximately $2,073,414.00 each two years. It is divided between the five institutions as follows:

MILLAGE TAX UNDER PRESENT LAW.

	Mills	Revenue Produced Two Years
University of Washington.....	.475	$987,972 00
State College .....	.325	641,770 00

Ellensburg Normal School.....	.070	138,228 00
Totals.....	1.05 mills	$2,073,414 00

The educational survey commission in its report recommends that the legislature fix the millage tax at the present session at 1.90 mills. This lev. would produce, based upon present property valuations in the state, approximately $3,751,886.00 during the biennium, making an increase of approximately $1,678,472.00 in the cost of maintaining our higher educational institutions during a two-year period.

The millage tax recommended by the commission provides that 1.71 mills shall be raised for maintenance and .19 mills for buildings, and is proportioned among the five institutions as follows:

For buildings, all institutions.....	.19	375,186 00
Totals.....	1.90 mills	$3,751,886 00

These statements clearly show that even though the elimination of duplication in courses of study, as recommended by the educational survey commission, may also eliminate some cost, yet the demands of the institutions, as viewed by the commission, call for the raising of about 80 per cent more revenue than is produced from the present millage tax levy.

The requests of some of the institutions for appropriations covering the two years beginning April 1st, next, are greater in amount than would be raised even though the millage tax as recommended by the commission, is fixed by your honorable body.

The report also carries the following recommendation:

"The commission believes that the needs of the state will soon require a fourth normal school, as suggested in the report of the experts, and recommends that one be established as soon as the financial conditions of the state will justify."

As no provision is made in the millage tax, recommended by the survey commission, to cover the cost of maintaining a fourth normal school, nor for a site and new buildings and equipment, which would be required, it will be necessary for your honorable body to add to the millage tax, as recommended, an amount sufficient to cover these additional expenditures, if you look with favor upon the establishment of a fourth normal school at any time during the period the millage tax you decide upon, shall continue.

Personally, it appears to me that it would be advisable for the legislature to fix a maximum capacity to which the present normal schools shall be increased, then have such a plan followed out, before providing for the establishment of a fourth normal school.

It has been suggested by some that on account of the differences of opinion existing between the members of the boards of regents and presidents of some of the higher educational institutions that I, as Governor, take upon myself the problem of settling these differences. I would not presume to take such action, especially as the legislature now has before it a report submitted by a commission consisting of its members, selected by the last legislature, to make an educational survey. I may say, I have confidence in the members of the boards of regents, selected by me, to have charge of the educational institutions. I believe these regents have acted wisely in their selections of those who have been placed in charge of the institutions, and even though there may be differences of opinion existing, this ought not to be taken as evidence that the individuals are not capable men.

Personally, I believe that one of the most important questions to be taken up by the legislature, in connection with this problem, is that of cost. There is a grave question in my mind as to whether or not the state can afford to make the rapid progress recommended by the educational survey commission. I am sure all will agree that we desire to have our educational institutions properly maintained. I doubt the advisability, however, of making the progress so rapid as to call for the expenditure of almost twice the amount of money in the next two years, as compared with that used during the past two years.

The action taken during the present session of the legislature ought to be along the line of settling for all time the differences of opinion existing between those in charge of the different institutions. It also ought to be based upon permanent and not temporary advancement of the institutions. To bring about this permanent advancement it would be unwise to make the burden of taxation so great that it might easily result in the creation of a feeling of opposition to the institutions in the future.

I still doubt the advisability of placing the five institutions under the control of one board of regents.

I sincerely hope it may be possible for your honorable body to bring about a fair and permanent solution of this most important question, and beg to assure you that I stand ready to assist you to the fullest of my ability.

State Board of Control.

The state board of control has under its direction eleven of the state institutions. These are the three hospitals for the insane, two soldiers' homes, institution for feeble minded, school for deaf, school for blind, state training school for boys, state school for girls, and state penitentiary. The state reformatory is in charge of a board of managers consisting of five members. So that this institution might have the benefit of the knowledge gained by the members of the board of control in their work in connection with handling the eleven institutions in their charge, shortly after assuming the office of Governor I appointed the members of the board of control as members of the board of reformatory managers. I recommended to the legislature of 1913, and again to the legislature of 1915, that the board of reformatory managers be abolished, and the institution placed in charge of the board of control. I still feel that there is no more reason for a separate board to manage the state reformatory than exists in connection with the other institutions in charge of the board of control, and would respectfully renew my recommendation that the board of reformatory managers be abolished and the duties now performed by that board placed in charge of the board of control.

The following comparative statement shows the per-capita cost of maintenance of the institutions in charge of the board of control, and also the state reformatory, for the two-year periods ending September 30, 1912, 1914 and 1916. The number of inmates being cared for at each of the institutions on January 1, 1917, is also included in the statement:

STATEMENT OF INSTITUTION MAINTENANCE COST AND POPULATION.

Total number at institutions.....				5,948

This statement will, I believe convince all who give study to it that practically all of the institutions have been maintained, during the past two years at a reasonable cost. Especially do we feel that this is the case when we consider the steady increase there has been in the cost of almost all of the supplies required for the institutions. This condition has been brought about without in any way allowing the state's properties to deteriorate, and the standard of food and clothing supplies for the inmates has been maintained. In fact, I believe it can be said that the conditions existing at the institutions have been materially improved during the past two years.

There are two or three of the institutions where, in my opinion, the cost of maintenance is too high. I realize that whenever efforts are made to reduce the maintenance costs of public institutions, the claim is immediately advanced by some persons that the inmates of the institutions are not being properly provided for. The results show that where reductions were made, it was as a result of carefully guarding all of the small details in connection with the management of the institutions, and in every instance conditions have been improved rather than injured, and the cost to the taxpayers has been reduced. Every effort possible will be put forth during the next two years to bring about a reduced cost in the institutions where the maintenance cost now appears to be too high.

I will not take your time by presenting in detail the accomplishments in connection with the management of these institutions during the past four years, nor the needs for the next two years, but would respectfully call your attention to the printed reports covering the institutions, and also the recommendations for appropriations made by the board of finance in its budget. I do, however, desire to especially urge that the appropriation asked for a woman's building at the state penitentiary be allowed. The building in which the women prisoners are now housed is inside the main wall of the prison. If the appropriation requested is made by your honorable body, a new building will be located outside the main wall, making possible absolute segregation of the sexes at the state penitentiary.

Tax Commission.

I again renew the recommendation made by me to the legislatures of 1912 and 1915 that the state board of tax commissioners be abolished and that the duties now performed by the commission be placed in the hands of one tax commissioner.

A number of changes in the taxation laws of the state are recommended by the tax commission. To bring some of these about would require amendments to the state constitution. As there now appears to be a bright prospect of the question of a new constitution being submitted to the voters of the state at the next general election, it would probably be advisable to leave this matter for the consideration of the members of the constitutional convention.

Should action not be taken by your honorable body looking to the calling of a constitutional convention, I urge your careful consideration of the recommendations made by the tax commission.

Board of Equalization.

At the last session of the legislature, an act was passed changing the membership of the state board of equalization. Under the provisions of this act, the board now consists of the state Auditor, the Commissioner of Public Lands and one member of the public service commission. Prior to the enactment of this law, the three members of the tax commission, the state Auditor and the commissioner of public lands formed its membership.

The work of the board of equalization is clearly along lines requiring the knowledge and information possessed by members of the tax commission. I therefore recommend that if the office of state tax commissioner is created, he be named a member of the board of equalization. Should the decision of your honorable body be opposed to the abolition of the tax commission, the three members of that commission ought to be again placed on the state board of equalization.

Board of State Land Commissioners.

A change was also made in the membership of the board of state land commissioners by the last legislature. The state tax commissioner, if such a position be created, on account of his knowledge of land values, would be a valuable member of this board, and I respectfully recommend that the tax commissioner be named as a member of the board of state land commissioners.

Industrial Insurance Commission.

As a result of the steady increase in the number of industrial enterprises in the state and the larger business being transacted by the plants heretofore operated, the work of this department shows a large increase over preceding years. During 1916 there has been an increase of about 45 per cent in the number of claims presented to the commission for its consideration, when compared with the business of 1915. As a result of this increase, it will require the greatest care on the part of those in charge of the department to complete the work of the present biennium with the appropriation made by the last legislature. A greater appropriation is being called for to conduct the department during the next two years. The commission also recommends the payment of larger salaries to some of its assistants. I feel that these recommendations ought to have your favorable consideration, for many of the salaries paid by the state, in this department, are much less than are paid by corporations for the same kind of service.

In November 1915, it was found that there had been presented to and paid by the commission a number of forged claims against the accident fund. Following the discovery of the defalcation, a complete and thorough check of all claims filed with the department from the inception of the law disclosed that fifty-two fraudulent claims had been paid. Seventeen of these claims were for large amounts, ranging from $885.00 to $1,340.00, and the thirty-five other fraudulent claims were in amounts ranging from $12.00 to $114.00. The total of the fraudulent claims was $20,047.35.

The methods adopted in preparing and securing payment on the claims, clearly indicated that it could not have been accomplished without the assistance of some person having a thorough knowledge of the department and its methods of handling claims. Sufficient evidence was secured so that on December 13, 1915, an information was filed in the superior court for Thurston county, charging John F. Gillies, who had occupied the position of chief claim agent of the department since its organization, with forgery in the first degree. On December 14, 1915, a charge of grand larceny was also filed against Gillies. A verdict of guilty was rendered in the first case on February 3, 1916, and the defendant was found guilty in the second case on February 24, 1916. The sentences imposed were one of four years and six months, minimum, covering the forgery charge, and one of a minimum of not less than one year, to commence at the termination of the sentence imposed in the forgery case, covering the grand larceny charge, both sentences being to the state penitentiary at Walla Walla.

An information was filed against Frank W. Stone on December 13, 1915, charging forgery in the first degree. After an unsuccessful effort had been made to locate Stone, a reward was offered for his apprehension. He was arrested in Portland, Oregon, on December 26, 1915. During the first trial of the chief claim agent, his accomplice, Stone, who was held in the Olympia city jail, made a confession to myself in the presence of the Attorney General and later to the Assistant Attorney General, who had charge of the trials. The evidence furnished by Stone was used in both of the Gillies trials. Stone entered a plea of guilty to the charge of forgery and sentence was imposed March 31, 1916, the defendant being committed to the state penitentiary at Walla Walla, for a period of not less than one year. Gillies made his escape from the Thurston county jail, where he was being held pending expiration of the time allowed for appeal to the supreme court. A reward for his apprehension was offered and he was captured at Key West, Florida, about two weeks later, and was delivered to the state penitentiary by guards sent to Key West to return him to this state.

The resignations of the three members of the industrial insurance commission were requested after the close of the trials, and the commissioners now in charge of the department were appointed.

On January 3, 1916, an examination and inspection of all of the records of the industrial insurance commission was started by the State Auditor. Not having sufficient funds in the appropriation made by the last legislature for the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices to complete the investigation, a request was made by the State Auditor that he be allowed to use a part of the appropriation made for the industrial insurance department. Desiring to assist to the fullest possible degree in bringing about a thorough inspection of the department, and acting upon an opinion expressed by the Attorney General that the fund could be so used legally, I approved the request made and $2,500.00 of the industrial insurance department appropriation was used by the State Auditor for this purpose. The report of the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices, prepared under the direction of the State Auditor, was completed on October 21, 1916, and a copy of it placed in the hands of the industrial insurance commission. I desire to urge that a special committee be appointed by your honorable body to inspect and investigate this department and to consider the report submitted by the bureau, covering its examination. The members of the industrial insurance commission join me in the request for the appointment of this special committee.

Pension Reserve.

On January 1, 1917, the pension rolls of the industrial insurance department were carrying 764 pension cases for which reserves have been set aside, the total reserve fund of that date amounting to $1,720,840.54, out of which the monthly pension allowances are paid. Of this amount, $1,608,100.00 have been invested in bonds, these bonds bearing interest at an average rate of 4.76½ per cent.

It has been officially reported by the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices that the pension reserve set aside by the commission, in each case, is insufficient to carry the pensioner to the end of the expectancy period, and that on January 1, 1916, there existed a shortage in the pension reserve fund amounting to over $500,000.00. These reserves are computed and set aside in accordance with the law as interpreted by the Attorney General, and while it appears at this time that at the present interest earnings, they are insufficient to pay out the expectancy, it should be taken into consideration that since the law became effective in 1911, over $267,000.00 has reverted to the accident fund, under the provisions of the industrial insurance law, on account of deaths or re-marriages. It is, therefore, obvious that it will require a long term of years to learn the ultimate effect of these reversions and to what extent the reserves, as now set aside, are deficient. It is a matter, however, that can only be changed by legislative action, and I would suggest it be given your consideration.

First Aid and Medical Attendance.

The last legislature had before it for consideration, the adoption of a bill providing for "first aid and medical attendance" for those coming under the provisions of the industrial insurance law. One of the bills presented was prepared by a special commission appointed by me to draft such a measure. The majority of the members of the legislature did not look with favor upon this bill, and passed one introduced by a member of the state Senate. It came before me for consideration after the adjournment of the legislature and, feeling it did not meet the requirements of the situation, it was vetoed.

I consider it the duty of the present legislature to pass a fair and just "first aid and medical attendance" bill, and sincerely hope such a bill will receive your favorable consideration.

State Highway Department.

I respectfully request that your earnest consideration be given to the recommendations made by the state highway commissioner in his report, which has been printed and is before you. The recommendation relating to the disposal of the rock quarries owned by the state is an important one. Over $250,000.00 was invested in the five quarries and their equipment, some years ago. But two of the quarries have been operated during the past two years. The results obtained from their operation have not been satisfactory, and the three quarries which have been closed for some years, can be operated only at a loss to the state.

I approve the recommendation of the highway commissioner that 25 per cent of the surplus of all automobile license fees, over and above the expenses of operating the automobile department, be placed in the public highway fund, to be used for the maintenance and repair of state highways. Under the present law, all of this fund is now placed in the hands of the county commissioners of the different counties, and expended by them. The state highways are among the most generally used roads in the state, and it seems but fair that a portion of the state automobile fees should be used for their maintenance.

I strongly approve the recommendation that no new state roads be established until the present system of state highways is completed.

There is no person in the state better qualified to outline the highways upon which the appropriations for the next two years shall be expended, than the state highway commissioner. He has prepared, and will submit to your committees having charge of this important part of the state's work, his recommendations. The program has been outlined in connection with the expenditure of federal appropriations upon highways in the state. I sincerely hope favorable consideration will be given to his recommendations, to the end that the best possible results may be obtained in the expenditure of the highway fund, and that work will be proceeded with on those highways where it is most needed.

The construction of state highways is being brought about without the issuance of bonds. It is progressing rapidly with the annual 1 mill levy now fixed by law. I believe this method of producing funds for highway construction ought to be continued.

Budget System.

There has been presented to your honorable body the budget prepared by the state board of finance in accordance with the law passed by the last legislature. It was prepared and printed in a concise and abstract form, and while we do not feel it to be as complete in detail as possibly might be desired by the legislature, we hope it may be of assistance to the members in deciding upon appropriations to be made. Reductions amounting to many hundreds of thousands of dollars were made by the board of finance from the recommendations submitted by the heads of departments and institutions.

Under the provisions of the budget law, all cost incurred in its preparation is paid from the appropriation for the Governor's office. The board of finance recommends that an appropriation of $500.00 be made to cover the cost of preparing the next budget.

Personally I look upon the present budget law as but a small start along the lines of a satisfactory budget system for the state. The Governor, as chief executive officer for the state, ought to have the full responsibility for the preparation of the budget placed upon him. The legislature ought to retain to itself the right to reduce any amounts he might recommend in the budget; but to make the budget truly effective, the legislature ought not to have the power to increase amounts recommended. A provision ought to be included in such a law allowing the chief executive to submit a supplemental budget, while the legislature is in session, so that, should any unexpected conditions arise making absolutely necessary an increase in the appropriations recommended by any department or institution, it would be possible to cover such an emergency.

While upon first thought it might appear that such a law would be placing too great a power in the hands of the chief executive, the legislature would have the right to reduce any appropriations that, in its opinion, were excessive. The power given to the Governor would only be along the line of holding down appropriations. Such a law would firmly fix responsibility for excessive appropriations upon him, and this is a condition, I believe, that the people of the state desire.

As the present budget law provides for the submission of the budget by the board of finance, without in any way binding the legislature to follow the recommendations made, the results of this, the first use of the budget plan, will be awaited with interest.

Military Department.

The maximum levy allowed by law for military purposes is twenty one-hundredths (20-100) of a mill. For some time a levy of eleven one-hundredths (11-100) of a mill was fixed by the state board of equalization. This levy raised approximately $110,000.00 a year. In fixing the levy in 1915, it was decided to increase it to the maximum, which produces approximately $200,000.00 per annum. As a result of this increase in the levy, it is probable that there will be nearly $100,000.00 on hand in the military fund on April 1st, which is the beginning of the next biennium. With the present levy and including the probable balance in the fund on April 1st next, there will be available for expenditure during the coming two years approximately $490,000.00.

So that the state may comply with the act passed by congress in June last, providing for increasing the national guard of the several states, the adjutant general recommends that appropriations amounting to $435,393.64 be made for general maintenance purposes for the national guard companies now existing, for new companies to be formed, and for the naval militia. He also recommends that $480,380.00 be appropriated for the construction of new armories and enlarging armories now in use. This brings the total recommended for the military department up to $915,773.64. As before stated, the amount available during the coming two years, with the present tax levy, will be approximately $490,000.00.

In the new military code, prepared by officers of the national guard, which will be submitted to the legislature for its consideration, a maximum levy of one mill is recommended for military purposes. This would produce almost $1,000,000.00 a year. The adjutant general states that, in his opinion, a maximum levy of eight-tenths (8-10) of a mill, would be sufficient. This would raise a fund of almost $800,000.00 a year. The present levy produces a little under $200,000.00 a year. I do not feel that the levy for military purposes ought to be increased to either of the maximums suggested.

I have endeavored to keep in touch with the movements made by the federal government during the past few months, in connection with military affairs, and have arrived at the conclusion that no person can now foresee just what lines are going to be established looking to permanency in this matter. The statements made by men prominent in national military affairs, at the hearings held in Washington city recently, indicate that they have but little confidence in the national guard becoming a factor of importance in the military organization of the country. If this view be taken by members of congress, it is probable there may be a modification of the national guard bill which was passed last June. The unsettled conditions now existing in relation to military affairs and the criticisms of the national guard by prominent officers of the regular army, have caused a condition which makes it almost impossible to secure new enlistments into the national guard. Many of the members of the guard are retiring from active service as soon as they can legally do so.

It seems to me that the best plan for the legislature to adopt, under these circumstances, would be to go over the recommendations made by the adjutant general and reduce them wherever possible, with a view to endeavoring to maintain a smaller and more efficient national guard, rather than to provide at the present session for appropriations for new buildings, such as would be needed in five years under the present program of the federal government relating to the national guard. If this plan is followed the state will probably be able to build up its national guard to the point required by the federal government during the next two-year period, and by the time another session of the legislature is held, the military policy will be so fixed that we can then act with a full understanding of what is required. Should there be sufficient funds remaining after maintenance needs have been cared for, the matter of providing new armories at Walla Walla and Aberdeen ought to be given consideration.

The State of Washington was the only state in the Union which sent its troops into the federal service at full war strength, when the call was made last June. The number of officers and men in the regiment and companies ordered out on the day the call was received, was 1,079. Ten days later, as a result of the efforts put forth to obtain new recruits, there were mustered into the federal service 2,033 officers and men. Not a single officer appointment was made from regular army officers nor civilians, to any position, all positions being filled by commissioned officers of the national guard. When it is taken into consideration that practically half the number mustered into federal service from the state were new recruits, it seems to me that the regular army officers would not be justified in expecting the same service as would be rendered by seasoned soldiers. Such a result could not be obtained from a regiment of the regular army containing as many new recruits.

Reports received from the Mexican border while our regiment of infantry was there, give credit to its officers and men for good service, and I desire now to express to them and also to the officers and men of the two companies yet stationed on the border, my profound appreciation on behalf of the state, for their promptness in answering the call and the earnestness with which they applied themselves to their duty.

Many expenses were incurred by the state, in connection with the mobilization of the troops, which properly ought to be paid by the federal government. The adjutant general will submit the information to you, covering this matter. I hope your honorable body will memorialize congress urging that the state be reimbursed.

Fisheries Department.

Every possible effort is being put forth to increase the output of the salmon and trout hatcheries of the fisheries department. During the past four years ten new salmon hatcheries and three new trout hatcheries have been built and put in operation, and the capacity of a number of those in operation four years ago has been increased. The output of the hatcheries is double that of four years ago. The state now has a total of twenty-six salmon hatcheries and seven trout hatcheries.

The fishing industry holds an important place among the industries of the state. The cost of the operation of the fisheries department is paid from the receipts for license fees, etc., paid by those engaged in the industry. The state ought to continue the development in this department and thus make still more valuable one of the state's great resources.

State Auditor's Department.

I have on file in my office a copy of the first and only report on the State Auditor's office, made by the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices. This report covers the period beginning October 1, 1912, and ending November 30, 1914, and was made by one of the state examiners. I fail to find a record of any other examination and inspection of this department.

The report of the state examiner covers the fees paid by savings and loan associations to the State Auditor, licenses paid by aliens for the privilege of possessing fire arms, and the actual expenditures incurred in the operation of the Auditor's office, such as clerical hire and incidentals. The following is quoted from the report of the state examiner:

"When the question is asked 'Who audits the Auditor's office,' it must always be remembered in answer that the checking of any department or institution of the state 'checks the Auditor' to the extent of that division of the government. As one department after another receives checking at the hands of the state examiners, a part of the detail of the process is the checking of the department's books with the State Auditor's books. These must always agree. If not, the Auditor's books of course, control.

"When this process has been completed with every state office, it is manifest that every entry in the Auditor's books has been checked, for he is nothing more nor less than the head bookkeeper of the state. So, except for the few cash collections made by the Auditor (and nobody is so anxious as he that these should be made elsewhere), the query 'Who audits the Auditor' ought to answer itself."

In the State Auditor's office is filed the original voucher covering every payment made by the state for all purposes. These vouchers cover in detail the items in payment for which a warrant is issued. It has been the rule of many of the state departments to keep no detailed duplicate vouchers in their files. Even where such a detailed duplicate voucher system has been followed by departments, the duplicate voucher is but a copy of the original. While a system of bookkeeping must be maintained by the State Auditor, and also the other departments of the state, the original voucher is the best evidence of the purposes for which the funds have been expended. As these are filed with the State Auditor and he passes finally upon the correctness of the claims of all the departments, the legislature would be following the line adopted by all large corporations, in authorizing a thorough examination of the State Auditor's office. As the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices is under the direct control of the State Auditor, the examination of the office ought not to be in its hands. Experts not regularly employed by the state should be engaged to do the work.

As there is no record of such an examination having been made since the state was organized, I would respectfully recommend that an appropriation be made and a thorough examination of the State Auditor's office undertaken. The examination ought to cover a period of not less than eight years. I am not informed regarding what the probable cost would be; the amount appropriated however, ought to be sufficient to have the work undertaken and completed at the earliest possible date.

Expositions.

An appropriation of $200,000.00 was made by the legislature of 1913, $175,000.00 to be used in the construction of a building and the assembling of an exhibit showing the state's resources and possibilities, at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco; and $25,000.00 to be used at the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego. The exposition at San Diego continued until December 31, 1916, but as the appropriation made by our state provided specifically that it was for expositions held in 1915, the Washington building at San Diego was closed on December 31, 1915.

After all bills had been paid, there reverted to the state treasury an unused balance of $6,861.00 from the fund for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, and $1,476.57 from the fund for the Panama-California Exposition.

I believe the state made a most creditable showing at both of these expositions, and desire now to express my appreciation for the valuable services rendered by the commission in charge, and also by those associated with the commission.

Library Advisory Board.

The library advisory board has prepared and will present to you a report covering its findings, as a result of a survey of the state libraries and their needs. I respectfully request that your careful consideration be given to the report of the board, and to its recommendations.

Water Code.

A water code has been presented at previous sessions of the legislature for consideration, but up to the present time, favorable action has not been taken. The matter will come before you again, at the present session, and I sincerely hope it will have your careful consideration, for the need of a water code in this state is apparent to all who have investigated the matter.

Legislative Reapportionment.

Under the provisions of the state constitution it is the duty of the legislature to "apportion and district anew the members of the Senate and House of Representatives according to the number of inhabitants," etc. The two preceding legislatures have failed to carry out this direct mandate of the constitution. I believe that a higher degree of efficiency would be secured if the state had but one legislative body consisting of say five members from each of the five congressional districts of the state, and respectfully recommend that this suggestion be given consideration when the question of legislative apportionment is taken up by your honorable body.

Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices.

Four years ago, in my first inaugural message to the legislature, I recommended the abolishment of the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices and suggested that, in its place, the State Auditor be authorized to employ two or three expert accountants having experience with public records, whose duty it should be to work out and install in the public offices—state, county and city—simplified systems of accounting. No action was taken toward enacting the recommendation into law, and the bureau has been continued.

One of the duties of the bureau is to examine the records of the different departments and institutions of the state and make reports covering the results of these examinations. During the four years just ended many of the reports have been so grossly incorrect as to render them practically valueless. In the case of a report made covering the state normal school at Ellensburg some time ago, there were so many mis-statements of the facts in it that a committee of Ellensburg citizens, of which one of the members of your honorable body was a member, demanded its correction. Another inspection was made and the report revised. The figures given in the last report made by the bureau of inspection covering the fisheries department were in many instances incorrect. The errors were called to the attention of the State Auditor, who is chief of the bureau, by the fish commissioner. The report, however, has not been corrected.

In the case of the report made by the bureau covering the investigation of the industrial insurance department, I may say that immediately upon its presentation to the industrial insurance commission on October 26th last, a number of mis-statements of facts were discovered by the industrial insurance commissioners and corrections were then made by the bureau of inspection. As this report has been further examined and checked with the records, by the industrial insurance commission, it is found that it contains many other errors. Such conditions as these are unfortunate, for the theory of the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices is that, as a result of its investigations, errors found in the records of the departments and institutions of the state may be corrected and also that any mis-application of the funds of any of the departments or institutions may be discovered. The reports of the bureau are the "last word" in the matter of the bookkeeping and accounting in the state departments. For this reason the work ought to be done only by those who are proficient and accurate in their work. Its reports are public documents and are filed as a part of the records of the state. The salaries paid in this department are sufficient to command the services of competent examiners. Unless the reports submitted can be relied upon as correct, they become useless for the purposes for which they are intended.

The bureau also has the authority, under the law creating it, to make examinations of county, city, school district and other public offices. While these examinations are made by the bureau of inspection, the cost for them is charged against the city, county or other sub-division of the government which is examined. I had hoped to be able to present in this message a statement showing the total cost of these examinations to the different sub-divisions of government, since the bureau of inspection was organized. The report had not been presented to me when this message was prepared. I am sure however, from information I have, that it has amounted to many hundreds of thousands of dollars. There is great doubt as to whether the results accomplished from the examinations have justified their cost. The bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices consists of three paid members, each receiving a salary of $2,500.00 a year. The State Auditor is ex-officio chief of the bureau.

I believe the needs of the state would be better served if this bureau were abolished and in its place a law enacted providing for the appointment of one expert accountant at a salary of say, $3,600.00 a year, this official to have the authority to employ such expert accountants as might be necessary to conduct the examinations of all of the state departments and institutions. Should the counties or cities desire his services, in connection with the examination of any of their offices or departments or for the purpose of installing new record systems in the offices, the law could provide that upon a request being made by the superior judge or the county commissioners of any county, he could take charge of and furnish experts to make the required examinations, the counties or cities to pay the actual cost incurred in the examinations. This could also be made to cover school districts and other sub-divisions of government.

The appointment of the official in charge of this work ought to be placed in the hands of the governor. The constitution of the state says: "The supreme executive power of this state shall be vested in a Governor." I recommend that the appointment of the expert in charge of this work be placed in the hands of the Governor, for the reason that I feel it to be a responsibility which he ought to assume.

This recommendation is presented by me in the hope that legislation may be enacted which will bring about more efficient results in connection with this, one of the most important matters in connection with the business of the state.

Miscellaneous Matters.

Among other matters which I believe ought to have your earnest consideration and which are of vital importance, is the so-called "logged-off land" problem. If there is anything the state can do, without exceeding its proper province in questions of this character, to bring about larger results in connection with this problem, it ought to be undertaken. The advisability of the state engaging in the manufacture of powder is closely interwoven with the "logged-off land" problem and also ought to be considered.

Many persons who have given careful thought to the matter, believe the "Mothers' Pension" act now on the statute books could be amended so as to more justly provide for the unfortunate situations arising in the state and with which it is concerned. I hope the matter will have the consideration of your honorable body.

The enactment of a law which will bring about better marketing conditions for those engaged in the different lines of agriculture is a subject which has received a great deal of attention during the past few years. Many states have already enacted statutes of this character. Some of the members of your honorable body are well informed regarding this problem, having given extended thought and investigation to it, and I hope the legislature will give careful attention to such suggestions as they may make.

During the past two years there has been a remarkable development in the ship-building industry in the state. Some time ago congress passed a law providing that training ships for mariners would be stationed at certain cities which were named in the act and that $25,000.00 a year would be furnished for the proper care of each ship and for the education of those desiring to enter the maritime service, provided the states in which the cities are located appropriate an equal amount each year to be used in connection with the federal appropriation. Seattle is named in the congressional act as one of the cities where such a training ship may be located. In connection with our ship-building activities and the large amount of commerce handled by water from our shores, it might be advisable for the state to look upon this matter with favor and I respectfully present it for your consideration.

There has been prepared, and will be presented for your consideration, a new banking code, covering state banks. The state bank examiner is well informed regarding this proposed measure. I desire to suggest that he be called upon for such information regarding it as your honorable body may desire.

A number of the states have created the position of state architect. In messages to the two preceding sessions of the legislature this has been one of the recommendations I have included. As I view the matter, the greatest need for the creation of such a position is that the state may have, in its regular employ, a person who will become well-informed regarding to the needs of the institutions, and the best lines to be followed in arrangement, lighting, heating, plumbing and ventilation of the buildings. Should there be a fear on the part of any of the members of the legislature that such an arrangement might bring about too much uniformity and sameness in the exterior designs of the state's buildings, this could be obviated by providing in the bill that the state architect have the authority to obtain the services of any architect or architects in the state to assist in the preparation of exterior designs of any buildings to be constructed.

I believe such a system would materially reduce the cost to the state, for this class of service. The most important element commending it, however, is that it would bring about better results in the floor arrangements of buildings, and in the lighting, heating, plumbing, and ventilating systems, due to the fact that the state architect's entire time would be devoted to investigating and becoming informed regarding the needs for state buildings. Such information and service would be very valuable to the state and is not available in connection with some of the new construction now undertaken.

The state has usually obtained good results under the present system. I believe, however, the better results would be obtained under the method suggested and it is for this reason I again renew my recommendation for the creation of the position of state architect.

I again renew the recommendation made by me two years ago that the wages paid to the factory inspectors be increased from $4.00 to $5.00 per day. The state force of factory inspectors is an efficient one. The wages now being paid are less than could be secured by the men employed in this work in some of the factories they are called upon to inspect.

On March 26, 1912, former Governor Hay offered a reward of $1,000.00 for the capture of one John Turnow, who was alleged to have committed several murders in the southwestern part of the state. After Turnow's capture a number of claims were made for the reward. Suit for payment of the reward to him was brought against the state by Giles Quimby and he secured judgment for the amount of the reward and costs amounting to $10.00. The Attorney General advised that Quimby be paid, but as there were not sufficient moneys on hand in the fund appropriated for the payment of rewards and extradition expenses, without depleting it for present needs, the matter is presented to your honorable body with the recommendation that an appropriation be made to pay the judgment and costs.

In the presentation of this message there are matters in connection with many other departments of the state to which I would be pleased to call your attention if time would permit. I would respectfully suggest that the published reports covering these departments be given your consideration.

Conclusion.

In conclusion I wish to call your attention to the necessity of holding down the appropriations to the lowest possible point consistent with proper care for the state's actual requirements. All appropriation bills submitted to the legislature, for special purposes, ought to receive your closest scrutiny.

I desire to say that it is my hope that your session may be harmonious, and beneficial to the state and its people. I stand ready to do everything in my power to assist in bringing about this result.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 20, 1915.

Honorable I. M. Howell, Secretary of State, Capitol Building.

DEAR SIR: I am herewith handing you Senate bill No. 392 with my veto. This is AN ACT relating to hours of labor on public work and amending section 6572 of Remington and Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington.

There is but one section to the bill and it amends section 6572 of Remington and Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington to read as follows:

"Section 6572. Eight hours in any calendar day shall be considered a day's work on any day done for the state or in counties or municipalities within the state: Provided, That it shall be lawful to work employees ten hours in any calendar day upon public roads, highways and bridges."

It is apparent that this bill intends to make it lawful to work ten hours a day upon public roads, highways and bridges, taking away from the provisions of the present eight-hour law these special and particular lines of employment, to-wit: "work on public roads, highways and bridges." Personally, I can see no reason why the construction of public roads, highways, and bridges should be made matters for special ten hour a day legislation, and other lines of public employment remain fixed by law at eight hours per day. If it is advisable to add to the number of hours of employment in this particular line, might not the same argument be used in favor of increasing the hours of employment in other lines?

One of the arguments made in favor of the passage of this bill was that "this law was deemed necessary for the reason that in many counties of the state the county commissioners allowed time consumed in going to and returning from work, to be included in the eight-hour day, and this, it was stated, often reduced the actual work on the road in these counties to five and six hours a day." I cannot see why there should be any necessity for the enactment into law of this bill for the purpose of assisting in the proper control of the situation herein referred to. I have been unable to find any law on the statute books compelling county commissioners to allow time, to persons employed on county road or bridge work, consumed in going to and returning from the work. As I understand the law, the county commissioners have exactly the same rights in connection with the employment of persons on road work, that do contractors on public work, and are called upon to figure the eight hours so employed only during the time when the employee or employees shall be at work. This argument made in behalf of the bill is of absolutely no force nor should it be given any consideration whatever. If the eight-hour law on public work is an unjust or unfair law it ought to be repealed, not in some particular or specific case as appears to be attempted in this bill, but covering all lines of employment coming under its provisions.

Personally, I see no reason why the eight-hour law now on our statute books should not remain as it is. Any person giving a faithful eight hours' work each day on "road work, highways or bridges" has rendered service to the county or to the state entitling him to be considered as having performed a sufficient amount of labor for one day. The very argument presented for this bill as herein quoted might be used against it, for that argument seems to indicate that oftentimes faithful service is not rendered to the full extent of eight hours each day as fixed under the present law.

The argument made by some that if allowed to employ labor on public roads, highways and bridges for ten hours each day, twenty per cent more work would be done at the same cost as if employment were for eight hours is not well taken. The great majority of those who have had experience in this class of work will bear out this assertion.

For the reasons herein given Senate bill No. 392 is vetoed.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

Senate Bill No. 392.

AN ACT relating to hours of labor on public works, and amending section 6572 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 19, 1915.

Honorable I. M. Howell, Secretary of State, Capitol Building.

DEAR SIR: I am herewith handing you Senate bill No. 166, the same having been vetoed by me. This is

AN ACT amending section 6653 of Remington and Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, relating to the classification and selection of state lands.

The purpose of this act is to take away from the board of regents of the state university the right of veto on sales of university lands. Those persons favoring the bill have felt that the regents of the state university have held back the sale of lands in many cases where such sales would have brought to the university fund from the lands as great returns as probably will be secured even though the lands are held until some future time. This is especially true of some of the farming lands which are a part of the university lands and in connection with this there has been and is the added feeling that the refusal to dispose of these lands has held back agricultural development in certain parts of the state.

The state university has large holdings in Douglas county. In the latter part of May, 1914, I visited Douglas county and at that time met a great many of the farmers who strongly urged that lands owned by the state university be placed on the market. On my return to the state capitol, under date of June 2, 1914, I wrote to the president of the board of regents of the state university, giving the information I had received while in Douglas county and suggested that it might be a good idea to appoint a committee from the membership of the board of regents to visit that part of the state, look into conditions and that possibly from such investigation some plan of action could be devised that would be satisfactory to all concerned. Apparently no action was taken by the board of regents regarding the matter as further protests were received. The information gained by me at a public hearing on this bill brought forth the fact that a resolution had been passed by the board of regents late in November, 1914, wherein the board went on record in favor of the sale of certain farming lands, the resolution having in mind especially the lands in Douglas county. A further resolution was adopted at a later date along the same lines.

I have no desire whatever to see the lands of the state university disposed of at prices that will not give to the university the very best returns from the lands. I do feel, however, that the university authorities ought not to hold back the sale of lands, when fair prices can be received, to the detriment of the proper development of the state. Inasmuch as the board of regents has now taken action which would seem to indicate its intention to offer for sale the lands regarding which this bill has been raised and that the results desired will be obtained without enacting into law this measure I am vetoing the bill. I still believe it would be advisable for the board of regents, through some committee consisting of its membership, to make further investigation regarding conditions in districts wherein large tracts of land are owned by the university, such as is the case in Douglas county, and hope that this will be done. Had such action been taken during the year 1914 along the lines suggested in my letter to the board on June 2d, it is highly probable that such a bill as is now before me would not have been presented to the legislature at the session just closed.

For the reasons herein stated, and with the feeling that the results desired by the framers of this measure will be arrived at without its becoming a law, Senate Bill No. 166 is vetoed.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

Senate Bill No. 166.

AN ACT amending section 6653 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, relating to the classification and selection of state lands.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 19, 1915.

Honorable I. M. Howell, Secretary of State, Capitol Building.

DEAR SIR: Senate bill No. 37 is herewith handed to you, the same having been vetoed by me. This is

AN ACT providing for the holding of sessions of the superior court of the State of Washington, for Chehalis county, in the city of Aberdeen in Chehalis county, Washington.

The bill provides for the holding of the superior court of Chehalis county in the city of Aberdeen in addition to its being held at the county seat. The bill further provides that the said superior court so sitting at Aberdeen shall always be open for the transaction of business except on non-judicial days.

After this bill had passed the legislature and was presented to me a public hearing was held at which time the opponents and proponents of the measure presented their views in relation to it. There have also been submitted to me by eminent attorneys of the state, briefs covering the question of the constitutionality of the act. One brief submitted by Bridges & Brucner and A. Emerson Cross upholds the constitutionality of the bill and others submitted by W. H. Abel of Montesano and Chas. B. Shepard and John E. Burkheimer of Seattle question its constitutionality.

Regarding this particular point I herewith quote from a letter addressed to me under date of March 13th, by Honorable W. V. Tanner, Attorney General of the state:

"Personally, I have some doubt as to the validity of this bill, but am advised by those supporting it that the lawyers drawing it had carefully considered the question of constitutional law involved and believe that the supreme court will sustain the act."

In arriving at my decision to veto this bill I have eliminated the question of its constitutionality regarding which there appears to be a diversity of opinion and have considered it from the standpoint of establishing a precedent regarding conducting a part of the business of a county at some location other than the county seat, and also the effect such precedent might have in connection with the conduct of county affairs in counties other than the one which is particularly referred to and interested in the bill before me.

Should this bill become a law, it is highly probable that at each succeeding session of the legislature, special bills would be presented providing for the holding of sessions of the superior court at places other than the county seat in some of the other counties of the state. For instance, we might illustrate Lincoln county in the eastern part of the state. The town of Sprague in this county is located many miles from the county seat. Davenport, the county seat, is on a branch line of the Northern Pacific railway. Sprague is on the main line of the Northern Pacific railway. The town of Sprague would be able to show strong reasons why sessions of the superior court of Lincoln county should be held in that town if a precedent were established in another county fixing such a condition. It might be said by some of the advocates of the measure before me that the population of the town of Sprague is not so large as the population affected by this measure, and for this reason favorable consideration ought not to be given if such a request should be made by the town of Sprague. Even though the population may not be so large yet it is equally true that the principle involved is exactly the same.

Other counties might be mentioned along the same line. For instance, Okanogan county with its few miles of railroads and many square miles of area. In that county it is necessary for the great majority of the residents of the county to travel many miles to transact business at the county seat. Cowlitz county with its county seat located at Kalama has also within its borders Kelso, Castle Rock and other towns the residents of which would be accommodated materially if sessions of the superior court could be held in their respective communities. In Skagit county, with its county seat located at Mount Vernon, are also located other towns whose residents would, without doubt, appreciate very much the opportunity to transact county business in their respective towns if opportunity to do so were given by some law enacted by the legislature.

The establishment of this precedent in relation to superior courts might in future lead to the division of some other of the county offices and the establishment of branch offices in certain localities other than the county seat, so that the taxpayers would be able to transact business with these offices without being under the necessity of traveling to the county seat.

It is true that the large proportion of the population of Chehalis county at the present time is more nearly in proximity to the town of Aberdeen than to the town of Montesano, its county seat. It is also true that the distance to be traveled from Aberdeen to Montesano is not to exceed twelve miles and the distance from Ilwaco one of the other cities on Grays Harbor does not exceed fifteen miles, so that the distance to be traveled in reaching the county seat of Chehalis county from these points where the great bulk of the population of the county is located, is short compared with the distance necessary to be traveled in many of the counties of the state by the residents of those counties in reaching the county seat for the transaction of business with the different county offices.

I fully appreciate that the enactment into law of this bill, should it be found to be constitutional, would be of advantage to the residents of the west end of Chehalis county who have business to transact with the superior court. It is equally true, however, that the scattering of the business of the superior court would add additional cost to the taxpayers of that county. The principal objection to this bill, as I view it, however, is the establishment of the precedent of conducting a part of the business of a superior court, or of a county office of any of the counties of the state, at some point other than at the county seat.

For the reasons herein given Senate bill No. 37 is vetoed.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

Senate Bill No. 37.

AN ACT providing for the holding of sessions of the superior court of the State of Washington, for Chehalis county, in the city of Aberdeen in Chehalis county, Washington.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 20, 1915.

Honorable I. M. Howell, Secretary of State, Capitol Building.

DEAR SIR: I am herewith handing you Senate bill No. 70 which has today been vetoed by me. This is

AN ACT regulating and licensing the practice of treating the sick or afflicted without the use of drugs or medicines, creating a board of examiners for such practitioners, defining the powers and duties of such board, prescribing penalties for the violation of this act, making an appropriation from funds created by collection of licenses under this act, providing for the turning over to the state general fund a part of the money collected from license fees hereunder, and repealing all acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith.

I have given careful consideration to this measure and cannot but feel that it would be a serious error to create a special board of examiners to pass upon the qualifications of persons desiring to practice under the provisions of this act. We now have a board of medical examiners consisting of nine members. The law provides that there shall be on the board two members from the osteopathic profession, two from the homeopathic profession and five members from the regular profession. The laws of the State of Washington in relation to granting the right to practice medicine are quite broad in their terms and even though it may be stated that additional provisions should be made whereby others might be enabled to legally practice the art of healing yet it seems to me that the granting of licenses for this purpose ought to be in the hands and under the control of one board.

It can readily be seen that there is a possibility of many persons, who would not be able to pass the medical examination required by the state board of medical examiners, might then make application to the board created under Senate bill No. 70 and secure from that board a license to practice in the state and receive a certificate issued by the board covering one or more of the lines indicated in section 4 of Senate bill No. 70, which are as follows:

"First. A certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice mechano therapy;
Second. A certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice suggestive therapeutics;

Third. A certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice chiropractic;

Fourth. A certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice food science;

Fifth. A certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice naturopathy;

Sixth. A certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice physical culture;

Seventh. A certificate for any other separate and co-ordinate system of drugless practice. Practitioners hereunder shall confine their practice to the system or systems represented by their certificate or certificates granted by said board. The applicant for an examination must file with said board at least two weeks prior to a regular meeting thereof, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and a diploma issued by some legally chartered drugless college, requiring at least three terms of thirty-six (36) weeks each of actual attendance and the entrance requirement of which is a high school education, or its equivalent, or satisfactory evidence of having possessed such diploma, except as herein otherwise provided, and he or she must fill out a blank application to be sworn to before some person authorized to take acknowledgments, showing that he or she is the person named in the diploma, that he or she is the lawful holder thereof, and that the same was procured in the regular course of instruction and examination, without fraud or misrepresentation. The said application shall be made on a blank furnished by said board, and such blank shall contain such other information concerning the drugless instruction and the preliminary education of the applicant as said board may by rule adopt or provide."

In effect I believe this bill would largely render null and void our present medical laws and would have a tendency to make the State of Washington the home of illy-trained and incompetent practitioners. The point is raised by those who are opposed to the bill that many drugless healers who would be authorized to practice under this act have not had training nor have they sufficient knowledge to enable them to recognize many of the diseases common to the human body; especially contagious diseases.

In conclusion I desire to say that if it is necessary to enact laws that will enable those who now practice drugless healing to be legalized, much better results would be brought about by having such laws a part of the general medical laws of the state, and as heretofore suggested in this message to have but one board of medical examiners, possibly changing the law so that there might be representation of this school on the board.

For the reasons herein stated Senate bill No. 70 is vetoed.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 23, 1915.

Honorable I. M. Howell, Secretary of State, Capitol Building.

DEAR SIR: I am herewith handing you substitute Senate bill No. 136. This bill is vetoed. It is

AN ACT relating to the compensation of injured workmen, creating a fund by enforced contributions thereto by employers and workmen, providing for the custody and expenditure thereof for surgical, medical and hospital care to injured workmen, amending section 6604-5 of chapter VII of title L of Remington and Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, and amending said chapter by adding thereto new sections numbered 6604-9a, 6604-9b, 6604-9c, 6604-9d, 6604-9e, 6604-9f, 6604-9g and 6604-9h, and providing penalties for violation thereof.

This is the bill known as the "First Aid" bill. There has been a strong and steadily increasing sentiment in favor of the adoption of a "First Aid" or "Medical Attendance" bill, from the time the industrial compensation act was enacted into law.

In analyzing a measure of this kind the fact should be at all times kept in mind that the industrial units coming under the act are of varied proportion, a vast majority of them employing less than ten men, a large number less than twenty-five, thus leaving but a small proportion with a pay roll sufficiently large to take advantage of plan number one provided in the bill, for organizing hospital associations.

It would be impossible for an industrial unit of from five to fifteen men, especially where the employees are not continuously employed, to form a hospital association that would be self-sustaining, on a basis of assessment, provided for in subdivision 9e of this bill, while it is true that there is probably sufficient latitude provided so that there may be a consolidation of several small units into a hospital association, it is equally true that this could be done only in the larger industrial centers. There are hundreds of small establishments located in remote parts of the state which would have no opportunity for such consolidation in order to establish themselves on a self-maintaining basis. Such establishments would have to rely on independent medical aid in case of injury and if the injury happened to be of a serious character, the cost computed on a pro rata basis of the small number of workmen employed would be much heavier on the small employer than on the larger one operating under plan number one.

Another point it might be well to consider in connection with small employers joining together to form hospital associations is that in order to reduce the cost of treatment it would be necessary oftentimes to transport the injured workmen great distances, which in cases of serious injuries would involve a risk to the injured, that should be avoided, if possible.

Statistics of the industrial insurance commission of our state show out of a total of 9,080 firms coming under the industrial compensation act, that 7,171 firms employed less than ten men. A first aid measure ought to be founded upon the principle of equitable distribution of cost based on the hazard of the industry and pro-rated equally according to the number of men employed in the industry as a whole. The provisions of the Kleeb bill are based upon one method to be used by the larger employers and another to be used by the smaller employers.

Another point in connection with this bill calling for careful consideration is with reference to the small employer who operates with little or no capital, such as the carpenter, house painter, paperhanger and others employing from one to five men and who takes small contract work. Subdivision 9f of the bill provides that every employer coming under plan number two, and this includes the small employers above mentioned, shall deposit with the commission such reasonable sum as the commission shall require, or shall furnish a surety bond or insurance policy to secure payment for necessary treatment of employees. In most instances small employers, such as above mentioned, would probably expect to make a cash deposit. It would be fair to presume that $50.00 for each such deposit would not be considered an unreasonable amount. If the employers of ten or less men should all make a cash deposit of $50.00 it would amount to approximately $350,000.00, as there are over 7,000 of these small employers who come under the provisions of the compensation act. On the other hand, should they furnish a surety bond or an insurance policy to secure payment for necessary treatment this bond or policy would cost each of them not less than $5.00 per year for the bond or policy. Figuring on a basis of 7,000 employers furnishing this bond or policy at $5.00 each, it would make a total cost to them of approximately $35,000.00 a year, which expense would be unnecessary if the provisions of Senate bill No. 135, known as the commission "first aid bill" had been enacted into law.

The placing in this act of a ten-day waiting period I also consider objectionable. In actual operation this ten-day waiting period would result in the employee paying a large proportion of the cost of medical attendance, as under the existing law there is now no waiting period before compensation is allowed to an injured person under the general schedule of the compensation act. Personally, I feel that a reasonable waiting period is probably desirable in order to eliminate the opportunity for abuses on the part of workmen in applying for compensation for trivial injuries, yet there is no justification, as I view it, for a waiting period for this purpose to the extent of ten days.

One portion of the bill reads as follows:

"If an injured workman be an alien and his dependent or dependents or beneficiaries reside in a foreign country, then said dependent or dependents shall receive only one-half of the award provided for in this act: Provided, That, if said injured alien workman has resided within the United States for a period of three (3) years and his family or dependent or dependents or beneficiaries have not become residents of the United States then said dependent or dependents or beneficiaries shall receive no compensation under this act."

The enactment into law of this provision would, without doubt, tend to work against the employment of American born or naturalized workmen by some employers, as the employment of foreign labor under this provision would reduce the cost to the industries, of injuries to workmen. Every man injured who had resided three years in this country and whose family still resided in a foreign country would be rated as a single man while disabled, and in case of death no reserve would have to be set aside for his dependents.

Some of the friends of substitute Senate bill No. 136 have given as one of their reasons for being in favor of the measure rather than in favor of the bill prepared by the special commission appointed for the purpose of drafting a "First Aid" bill, the fact that many of the labor organizations of the state went on record against the enactment into law of the commission "First Aid bill." With this kind of a statement these persons now endeavor to justify the passage of a measure that is eminently unfair to the employee when compared with the bill prepared by the special commission. Had these persons, after making such statements, prepared, worked for and assisted in passing a measure that would give to the employee greater consideration and protection than was given under the commission bill they might in fairness use such arguments as the one referred to. They certainly have no right, however, to give as one of their reasons for opposition to the commission bill the fact that part of organized labor opposed it and then enact into law a bill, the provisions of which were apparently considered only from one standpoint and that the standpoint of the employer.

A first aid bill ought to be enacted into law in the State of Washington and made a part of the industrial compensation system. To secure general support for a first aid law, to have it workable, and to eliminate the constant changing and amending of such a law at each succeeding session of the legislature, it will be necessary to have its provisions more equitable than are those of the bill before me. I believe that the interests of the great majority of those to whom the provisions of a first aid bill will apply will be better served by my vetoing this bill.

I had hoped it might be possible, at the session of the legislature just closed, to enact into law a suitable "first aid" bill. As a result of the deliberations of the legislature, substitute Senate bill No. 136, the bill now before me, was passed. I am sure its provisions do not meet the approval of the great majority of those who are affected by such a law and believe it is preferable to await the time when a more equitable law can be adopted, rather than to attempt to administer first aid under the provisions of this bill.

For these reasons, substitute Senate bill No. 136 is vetoed.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

Substitute Senate Bill No. 136.

AN ACT relating to the compensation of injured workmen, creating a fund by enforced contributions thereto by employers and workmen, providing for the custody and expenditure thereof for surgical, medical and hospital care to injured workmen, amending section 6604-5 of chapter VII of title I, of Remington and Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, and amending said chapter by adding thereto new sections numbered 6604-9a, 6604-9b, 6604-9c, 6604-9d, 6604-9e, 6604-9f, 6604-9g and 6604-9h, and providing penalties for violation thereof.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 22, 1915.

Honorable I. M. Howell, Secretary of State, Capitol Building.

DEAR SIR: I am herewith handing you Senate bill No. 364. Sections 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 are approved and section 2 is vetoed. This is

AN ACT relating to the compensation of injured workmen in our industries, and the compensation of their dependents where such injuries result in death, providing for the collection and disbursement of funds for such purpose, and amending sections 6604-4, 6604-5, 6604-8, 6604-13, 6604-14 and 6604-17, and repealing section 6604-25, and adding sections 6604-12a, 6604-21a and 6604-24a to Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington.

Section 2 of this act is vetoed for the reason that it provides a ten day waiting period; in other words a period of ten days from the time of injury during which period a person shall not receive compensation under the general compensation act of the state. This particular section would probably be necessary were I approving substitute Senate bill No. 136, which is

AN ACT relating to the compensation of injured workmen, creating a fund by enforced contributions thereto by employers and workmen, providing for the custody and expenditure thereof for surgical, medical and hospital care of injured workmen, amending section 6604-5 of chapter VII of title L of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, and amending said chapter by adding thereto new sections numbered 6604-9a, 6604-9b, 6604-9c, 6604-9d, 6604-9e, 6604-9f, 6604-9g and 6604-9h, and providing penalties for violation thereof.

Inasmuch as substitute Senate bill No. 136 will be vetoed, I am also vetoing section 2 of Senate bill No. 364.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

Section 2 of Senate Bill No. 364.

AN ACT relating to the compensation of injured workmen in our industries, and the compensation of their dependents where such injuries result in death, providing for the collection and disbursement of funds for such purposes, and amending sections 6604-4, 6604-5, 6604-8, 6604-13, 6604-14, and 6604-17, and repealing section 6604-25, and adding sections 6604-12a, 6604-21a and 6604-24a to Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 18, 1915.

Honorable I. M. Howell, Secretary of State, Capitol Building.

DEAR SIR: I am handing you herewith Senate bill No. 337, being

AN ACT relating to game birds, game animals, game fish, the propagation, introduction and protection of the same, amending sections 5395-41, 5395-44, 5391-1, 5364-1, 5363½, 5358, 5349, 5395-4, 5395-23, 5395-24, 5395-25, 5395-26, 5395-27, 5395-28, 5395-31, 5395-33 and 5395-34 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington and repealing sections 5395-37 and 5395-39 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, and making an appropriation.

Sections 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, and 18 are approved. Sections 2, 7 and 19 are vetoed.

Section 2 of this bill is vetoed on account of the following language: "and it shall be unlawful at any time in streams above any waterfall or natural barrier to fish with salmon eggs as bait east of the Cascade mountains." The fact that there is a waterfall in the Columbia river known as the Celilo falls might cause this provision to be construed so as to prevent the use of salmon eggs anywhere in Eastern Washington. I am inclined to the view that the present statute which would be repealed by enacting into law section 2 of this bill is more satisfactory as a whole than would be the provisions of this section. For these reasons section 2 is vetoed.

Section 7 of this bill reads as follows: "Every person who shall use any sink box or sink boat or sneak boat for the purpose of shooting wild ducks, geese, swan or other water fowl, or who shall use any battery, swivel or pivot gun, or any gun other than one to be held in the hands and fired from the shoulder, at any time, for the purpose of shooting wild ducks, geese, swan, brant or other water fowl; or who shall build any structure in any of the waters of this state for the purpose of shooting therefrom wild ducks, geese, swan, or other water fowl; or who shall at any time between sunset and before sunrise fire off any gun or build any fire or flash any light, or burn any powder or other inflammable substance upon the shores of any feeding grounds frequented by wild ducks, geese, swan or other water fowl, with intent thereby to shoot, kill, injure, destroy or disturb any of such water fowl, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as herein-after provided."

Two years ago the present game code was adopted by the legislature. At that time no question in connection with the code brought forth greater discussion than did the particular one referred to in section 7 of this bill. After giving careful consideration to the matter the legislature at that time adopted the language now contained in section 5358 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington. I believe the present law in relation to the matter covered in this particular section is much more desirable than would be that endeavored to be enacted into law in section 7 of the bill before me. Section 7 is therefore vetoed.

Section 19 of this bill repeals the present law which enables the game wardens to ascertain whether or not a man is lawfully in possession of game. To repeal the language of the present law relating to this matter and which is contained in sections 5395-37 and 5395-39 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, would be to return to the unsatisfactory conditions existing before its enactment. Section 19 of this bill is therefore vetoed.

All other sections of the bill are approved.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

Sections 2, 7 and 10 of Senate Bill No. 337.

AN ACT relating to game birds, game animals, game fish, the propagation, introduction and protection of the same, amending sections 5395-41, 5395-44, 5391-1, 5364-1, 5363½, 5358, 5349, 5395-4, 5395-23, 5395-24, 5395-25, 5395-26, 5395-27, 5395-28, 5395-31, 5395-33 and 5395-34 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington and repealing sections 5395-27 and 5395-39 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, and making an appropriation.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 22, 1915.

Honorable I. M. Howell, Secretary of State, Capitol Building.

DEAR SIR: I am herewith handing you Senate bill No. 406 with certain items vetoed as herein enumerated. This is

AN ACT making appropriations for the purchase of land for the construction of buildings at, the maintenance and sundry expenses of, the various state institutions, schools and state offices; for sundry civil expenses of the state government and for miscellaneous purposes for the fiscal term beginning April 1, 1915, and ending March 31st, 1917, except as otherwise provided; for certain deficiencies and the relief of certain persons and officers, and providing when this act shall take effect. The following items are vetoed:

Traveling Librarian.—For books and clerk hire in addition to amounts heretofore appropriated at this session.....$1,800.00

An examination of the appropriation bill passed two years ago shows that an appropriation of $9,200.00 was made for this department for the two years ending March 31st, 1915. In the general appropriation bill passed at this session of the legislature an appropriation of $10,500.00 was made for the traveling library. The amount already appropriated is $1,300.00 in excess of the appropriation of two years ago. It does not appear there is necessary for the conduct of this department an additional $1,800.00. For this reason the additional appropriation made in Senate bill No. 406 is vetoed.

State Auditor's Office.—Salary of secretary of board of finance.....$600.00

This appropriation was made for the purpose of increasing the salary of one of the deputies in the State Auditor's office to the extent of $300.00 per year. This deputy acts as secretary of the board of finance. By vetoing this item it is not intended, nor should it be taken as any criticism of the work of this official. At the present time, however, he receives a salary of $1,800.00 per year. I can see no reason for increasing the salary of this one official. For this reason the item is vetoed.

Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices.—For printing in addition to amount heretofore appropriated at this session.....$4,000.00

I find that a total appropriation of $3,000.00 was made for printing at the session of the legislature two years ago, that appropriation covering the two years ending March 31st, 1915. In the general appropriation bill passed at this session of the legislature an appropriation of $6,000.00 was made for this department to cover printing, an increase of $3,000.00 over the appropriation of two years ago. This additional appropriation would make the total amount for printing $10,000.00, or $7,000.00 more than the appropriation of two years ago. From my knowledge of the work of the department, I am inclined to feel that the increase of $3,000.00 already provided for in the general appropriation bill is sufficient. This item of $4,000.00 additional is therefore vetoed.

All of the other items of the bill are approved.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

Mr. President and Members of the Joint Session:

It is on such occasions as this that we are reminded of the loss we have sustained in the death of a friend, a neighbor, and a citizen. It is in this thought that I desire to speak to you today in memory of Hon. Addison G. Foster.

It was my pleasure to know Senator Foster for almost a quarter of a century, and as a friend he never faltered, and as a citizen he represented the highest type of manhood, and in his death the State of Washington lost one of its most influential and honored men. Probably the most distinctive service rendered by Senator Foster while United States Senator, was the securing of aid to navigation on the Pacific coast. At the time he entered our national councils no attention whatever had been given this most important subject, but with his usual energy and determination he started in to make it possible for shipping, both on the Columbia river and Alaskan waters, to be developed and such improvements as would secure the greatest measure of safety.

He brought to his service in the Senate, a mind ripe in business matters and was able to approach questions from a business standpoint. Senator Foster was not an orator but he accomplished his work from a business man's standpoint and his great mind and business training made him a leader in all questions affecting the commercial interests of the country.

Senator Foster was always identified in Republican politics, having been in many minor offices in Minnesota and finally rounded out his useful career as a member of the Senate of the United States. Since 1905 he had lived a retired life.

He was a man, not spectacular, but was best known to those nearest him as a man of kind and happy disposition, doing in his quiet way, many acts of kindness, and his means always at the command of those doing acts of charity and generous kindness.

Many of our citizens in Tacoma well remember his kindly deeds and he will long be remembered for his genial, hearty greeting, with a sincere sense of duty to his constituents and devotion to his friends.

Senator Faulkner spoke as follows:

Mr. President and Members of the Joint Session:

My sentiments on an occasion of this kind do not find ready expression in words, and I keenly feel my inability to pay a really fitting tribute to the memory of Edmund K. Pendergast, a former member of the House, and a man who was one of the strongest characters I ever knew. Because of my long and intimate acquaintance with him—because of the further fact that his life's work was made up in a large measure of his service as a public officer in the four counties embraced in the district which I represent, the members of the House from those counties have requested me to speak here concerning him, and I consider it both a duty and a privilege to do so.

His father who was the founder and first president of the Agricultural College of the State of Minnesota and a superintendent of instruction for that state, believed that no boy who did not earn his own way, could fully appreciate the value of an education, or use it to best advantage. Thrown upon his own resources, he paid his own way through school, and after graduating from the law department of the University of Michigan, came west and practiced law for a time in Spokane, which was at that time a mere village. About a quarter of a century ago, he moved to the town of Waterville, where his real life's work began.

I have often thought that the two biblical characters, Cain and Abraham, typify the two classes that have pioneered the west, and contended together for the mastery of every frontier settlement from the Alleghenies to the shores of the Pacific.

The one class are fugitives from justice, seeking a country where they can be free from the restraints of law, while the other class are home seekers and home builders, who have acted in response to the race instinct for pioneering, that has kept the white man on the move ever since he left his original home in Western Asia, perhaps untold centuries before the days of Abraham. The latter class have always stood for truth and justice, law and order, and their cherished institutions have been the church and the school, while the former class on our western frontier, have upheld crime, and stood for the wide-open town.

When he first went to Douglas county, he found the worst element in Eastern Washington congregated there, as a result of the railroad construction then going on, and at once threw all his energies into the fight for the cause of law and order. He was elected as city attorney, and a short time afterwards as prosecuting attorney of Douglas county, a position which he held for three terms, and by his ability and fearlessness, made himself a terror to the evil doer. His reputation as a lawyer and a prosecutor spread to adjoining counties, and the stockraisers of Okanogan county who had suffered from the depredations of the outlaw element that always hovers along an international boundary line, induced him to remove his residence to that county, where he served an additional three terms as prosecuting attorney, and succeeded in making a region formerly dominated to large extent by horse and cattle thieves, one of the most peaceable and law abiding regions in our commonwealth, a county where there has been no murder case for six years and only one case of robbery in ten years, and where petty thievery is practically unknown.

When I first met Judge Pendergast in 1904, he was serving his first term as prosecuting attorney of Okanogan county, and was at the same time the worst hated and the most highly respected man in the community. The outlaw never gives up his control of a community with good grace, Judge Pendergast's firm stand for sobriety and morality and law and order, made him respected by all, and he grew in the esteem of the people among whom he worked, as the years went by. He served during the last six years of his life, as judge of the Superior Court of Okanogan and Ferry counties, and had the pleasure of living long enough to see that his life's work was not in vain.

Those of us who have lived in the community where he labored, realize that he did more for the cause of law and order in that region than any other man, and that is the reason why we feel that it is proper to remember him in these memorial services, and why our hearts go out in sympathy for his widow—a noble woman, and for his son, an excellent young man.

Judge Pendergast's kindly disposition was shown by the fact that in the towns of Conconully and Okanogan, where he spent the closing years of his life, every child knew and loved him.

Most of us who have reached middle life, realize when we stop to take an inventory of ourselves, that we are but wrecks of what we might have been, had our environment and our opportunities been different, and in this case, I have often thought that notwithstanding the fact that at the time of his death, he was occupying the highest office within the gift of the people who knew him best, it was a great loss to our state as a whole that he was not known throughout its border, because a knowledge of his great abilities and splendid character would have caused him to be called higher up in its councils.

I believe that the true measure of a man's life is made, not entirely by considering the things which he has actually accomplished, but in part by considering the odds with which he has had to contend, and measured by such a standard, Edmund K. Pendergast was one of the truly great men of our state. I will indulge in no vain attempt to lift the mysterious veil which hides the future from us, but will simply express the faith that he still lives, in the realm where God's eternal law prevails.

Senator Wray spoke as follows:

Mr. President and Members of the Joint Assembly:

There is presented to those of us who arise to speak a word in memory of our departed members, a difficult task difficult because for every century in the history of man orations of this nature have been made and the entire field of thought so fully explored as to leave little to be said, and difficult because language itself is inadequate to fully portray the profounder emotions of the soul.

Whatever we may say, however apt we happen to be in the choice of words, we ever end our comments of this nature with the knowledge that we have done but poor justice to the occasion and paid but feeble tribute to our departed friends.

The occurrence of death is everywhere in evidence, but the fact of death is the ever present and unsolvable mystery of life. Today we look gladly into the face of our friend and rejoice in his companionship. Tomorrow he lies before us unresponding to our call and indifferent to our tears and sorrow. Seemingly, from the physical appearance there is no cause for his silence. The organs of the body are there—and the body itself seems complete and perfect, but the animating principle is gone and that at which we look is no longer our friend. That which inspired the body and made it responsive to all the requirements of friendship the word of encouragement, the smile of approval, the caress of affection all these have taken their departure, and that at which we look is but the deserted house rapidly rushing toward ruin and decay. Nor does the accumulated wisdom of the ages bring an answer to the cry of humanity as to the meaning and mystery of death. It is true that when human wisdom fails, faith steps in and points to the day when the brightness of vision will give full recompense and answer for the darkness and mysteries of this life, and yet in its sorrow and grief over the loss of our friends and loved ones, the human soul craves out for a broader shaft of life from the vast and unspeaking beyond.

I give way to this trend of thought, Mr. President and Gentlemen, because I was near to Senator Ruth and his friendship meant much to me, and I have been wondering if that which now keeps us apart is an eternal something pressing with the force of a never ending destiny or merely a transitory experience which will give way sometime, somewhere, and result in a reunion of friendship's ties under a brighter sky and with a higher and more satisfying environment. You often read in obituary notices this sentence: "His death is a distinct loss to the community." I presume that there is hardly a human being, whatever may be his station in life, but whose death assumes the magnitude of being a distinct loss. Some heart will be lonely and some life made barren, because of his death. So that, though shopworn, the term "distinct loss" is never a misuse of words. And yet, Gentlemen, in a peculiar sense we may apply this phrase to our departed member, Senator Ruth. He had the faults common to many of us. Like his fellow men everywhere, and throughout all history, he was far from perfect, and in his social and political views he differed from many of us. But he was brave, truthful and conscientious. He did not profess one thing and act another. He never advocated a cause unless that cause appealed to his convictions, and when it did, no force of opposition daunted him and no fear of adverse criticism swerved him from his chosen path.

Mr. President, when a man possessing these traits of courage, conscientiousness, and conviction passes away, the entire circle in which he lived meets with a distinct and definite loss which can only be recompensed to the world by the renewed cultivation of these virtues by those of us who still remain to advance the cause for good government and enlarge the sphere of enrolled citizenship.

Senator Ruth was inherently too big and too great to be guilty of the little meannesses common to small men. If he held aught against another, and felt the necessity of giving it expression, he did not descend to the low level of assassinating the reputation of that one by insinuation and innuendo when the other's back was turned. He was never afraid to look the other fairly in the face in giving expression to his thoughts.

We hear and read a good deal in these days of the superman, the man who rises above his generation and lives upon the mountain top of greatness rather than in the valley, where littleness and selfseeking kill the impulses of loyal and true manhood. We hear and read of men in the trenches and on the battlefields, who hourly look death in the face and laugh it to scorn while they discharge their duties and plan for future conquests as though there were no such thing as death. So was Senator Ruth a great and brave man. There attached a deadly disease to his body long years before that disease mastered his iron will and finally won a triumph.

Time and again with the White Plague reaching for victory over him he faced it unafraid and unconquerable, and performed his duties as a public servant and private citizen with the mighty strength of immortal heroism. Time and again we looked upon his face with the fear tugging at our hearts that this was our final farewell, and yet he lived and fought and consecrated himself to his work, until at last all fighting was in vain, and like the most gallant knight of old or bravest soldier of the present giant war, he laughed in the face of his final enemy and yielded to the inevitable.

Gentlemen, I esteem it as one of the highest privileges in this honorable body to be called upon to speak a word in eulogy of our departed friend and colleague, the Honorable A. S. Ruth. I wish it were possible for me so to speak, with such force of burning eloquence and power so that my voice would carry beyond the shadows of death and give him to know with what respect I cherish his memory and what profound feelings of friendship I still hold for him. I realize that there is no pyramid of flowers we can build whose beauty and fragrance will reach him. I know there is no music we can create whose chords may touch his ear. I know we cannot thrill his heart as of yore with our words of affection and respect. So far as he is concerned, this service of tribute and regard carries no influence whatever. But I also know of the reflexive power of a service of this character. While our thoughts may not climb the steps of progress he has attained, none the less, our thoughts of him and his life while here of his courage and manly courtesy and kindness of heart—these thoughts that we send towards him may so come back upon ourselves, as to transform us from all selfseeking and littleness into the true greatness of unselfish and devoted public service. These thoughts we offer in tribute to him, and the others whose memory we cherish today, may have and ought to have the effect of lifting us up to the true dignity of the honor conferred upon us by the people, and with mutual respect for each other's views and convictions, with mutual regard and gentleness of courtesy, and with manly fortitude and self-conquest, as in the presence of the great dead who lie before us, consecrate our best efforts and highest talents to legislation in the people's best interests, as they who have gone would counsel us to do could they return from their unknown bourne and sit with us again in these legislative halls.

Mr. Shields (J. M.) spoke as follows:

It becomes my sad duty, at the outset of my service in this honorable body, to call attention to the great loss sustained by it in the death of Hon. Wm. F. Robinson. This occurred January 7th, 1916, just about a year ago, after an illness lasting nearly three months. In the hope that the mild climate of Southern California might make him more comfortable, he had gone to Pasadena, where, with his family about him, the end came. The body was brought back to his home in Anacortes, where the funeral services were held with every mark of sorrowful esteem and affection by his neighbors, as well as other acquaintances from a distance, and there the body lies buried. The legislature was officially represented by Senators W. V. Wells and Ed Brown, and by Speaker W. W. Conner of the House and Hon. W. A. Lowman.

As a legislator, Mr. Robinson was intelligent, diligent, and conscientious. He sought always to advance and to defend the true weal of the state. Being a business man, he could and did consider the practical working of the legislature. His long experience and shrewd judgment made him a valuable adviser. Having a well trained mind, he was qualified to express himself clearly and forcefully when the occasion called for it. Having strong moral convictions, to which his life conformed, he was always concerned for the ethical conservation of the commonwealth. Hence his influence and vote could always be counted on the side of righteousness in any question involving public morals. He served with distinction and usefulness on the following committees: Banks and Banking, of which he was chairman; Fisheries, Harbors and Waterways; Appropriations; Commerce and Manufacturing; Constitutional Revision.

He enjoyed the confidence of his constituency. While never a public man in the sense of being an office seeker until he was prevailed upon by those friends who knew his sterling fitness for the office of representative to become a candidate for it, it is expressive of the confidence his district reposed in him that he received the largest vote cast for a legislative candidate in the election.

His interest in education led his townsmen to elect him a member of the school board, where he served with marked ability as chairman for eleven years.

Mr. Robinson came of distinguished New England ancestry, being a direct descendant of Rev. John Robinson, the minister of the Pilgrim Fathers. Hon. William Fears Robinson himself was born in Massachusetts Sept. 8th, 1859. He followed the occupation to which he was born fishing in which his family had been engaged since about 1690. The process of manufacturing fish glue, now so extensive an industry, was discovered by Mr. Robinson's father in his codfish establishment at Gloucester, Massachusetts, where the family industry had long been established.

Mr. W. F. Robinson came to the Pacific coast in 1893, and established a glue factory at San Francisco. In three years he moved to Seattle and enlarged his business plant by the manufacture of fish fertilizer and oil. In 1897, a year later, the business was moved to Anacortes as a more suitable and convenient location, and here under Mr. Robinson's excellent business ability the Robinson Fisheries Co. grew into one of the most important codfishing enterprises of the country, the oil and fertilizer business constantly expanding also.

Here during the score of years he lived in Anacortes, his neighbors grew to admire and like him, and noting his public spirit and keen interest in the affairs of the community, they took his measure and called him a good citizen of the highest type.

While not thrusting himself forward, yet he was willing to serve whenever needed and in any position whatever.

This honorable body may well share in the sincere regret and deep sorrow of Mr. Robinson's home district, and join with it in extending condolence to the widow and children, to whom his removal is an unspeakable sore affliction. He was an exemplary husband and a kind father. The House of Representatives has sustained a heavy loss in the death of William Fears Robinson, and the State of Washington one of its most upright and valuable citizens.

Mr. C. V. Savidge spoke as follows:

In taking up the loving task that you have assigned to me today, I find myself face to face with a realization of the feebleness of words as a means by which either to gild a grief or give expression to a joy, and I am constrained to voice the wish that I were possessed of that grace of diction which would enable me to perform in a fitting manner this mission of tender sympathy.

It is not my purpose to take of your time for an extended oration. The lips are not always the most effective method of expressing the emotions of the heart. He who is loudest in his lamentations does not always mourn the longest, while he who journeys often to the cemetery, and sitting beside the tomb of his friend in the quiet twilight hour lives again the happiness of other days, has given expression to his grief in a way which is at once impressive to his fellows and acceptable to his God.

I am mindful, further, of the fact that many beautiful thoughts have been drowned and lost in a torrent of words. I shall therefore content myself with offering a brief and simple tribute to the memory of those whose absence we mourn because they have gone over to the other side to "hold the gates ajar" until we shall come and enter in.

We stand today in the shadow of the one sorrow from which man never flees. He hurries from the scene of every other pain, but to the sorrow which comes from the death of a friend he returns again and again, and so today we return to the scene of our grief and take of the flowers of love that blossom in the garden of our hearts and lay them on the tombs of those who were our friends in life, and the memories of whose virtues are stars in the firmament of the past.

It is, I believe, not inconsistent with the spirit of the hour to observe that the occasion of our gathering today reminds us that life's little day is swiftly passing; that "the night cometh when no man can work;" that in the endless procession of the ages others are advancing to take our places as we fall; that the flowers we lay upon the casket of a friend might better be given to him while his eyes may yet behold their beauty, and their fragrance bring some surcease from pain; that the words of praise that I am privileged to speak in memory of these men today might the better have been spoken to them ere their hearts were stilled forever, and have brought them some cheer ere their barks put out to sea.

Someone has said that "the evil which men do lives after them, while the good is oft interred with their bones." That this is not true of these men is evidenced by this gathering which has met in recognition of their services to this great commonwealth. Their sterling examples of citizenship have taught us that "the capacity of men to rule themselves is not proven by the splendor of their genius, nor yet by the extent of their dominions," but rather by their devotion to the principle that "all men are born free and equal before the law;" they did not forget to teach us to seek "that righteousness that exalteth a nation;" they have pointed out to us that the worship of self, the love of power, the lust for gold, were dangers that would confront such a government as ours, for they indicate a decay of public virtue. Ninety millions of people are safe from dangers from without so long as they are devoted to their country and its institutions.

They have taught us to be brave; not mere physical courage, but that moral courage which will enable us to face the duty of dealing with public evils without fear. They have taught us to be patriotic, to love our country above all other things; patriotic in peace as well as war; devoted to the cause of peace; fervently praying that this nation may never again be devastated by the horrors of war, yet forgetting not as we gaze upon that starry emblem of our country's greatness and see pictured upon its shining folds the faces of the multitudes of brave men who have gone forth from their homes and loved ones and fought beneath that starry banner until the lamps of their lives went out upon the altar of our country, that the blessings of a free government might be our heritage, that there rests upon us the obligation to see to it that when we give that starry banner into the keeping of those who shall come after us, it shall be unsullied and without a star obscured.

A half century ago when the nation was being shaken to its foundations by the greatest civil war in the history of the world, men were laboring diligently here to build this empire in the west, which should be a common ground upon which the men of the north and south might meet and gather up the scattered strands of their broken friendships, turn their faces toward the sunlight of peace and once more march shoulder to shoulder in the battle of life. They laid the foundations on which has risen a commonwealth worthy of the illustrious name of Washington, broad and deep in a citizenship that is the peer of any in the world, imbued as it is with the spirit of liberty that animated the founders of this republic. They did not build this empire upon the crushed and ruined hopes of another people. He who wins in the terrible contest now being waged on Europe's bloodstained field will do so at the cost of a desolation beyond the power of words to describe. The paeans of victory will not drown the sobs of the widow, nor acquisition of territory still the empty heart of the mother. Theirs was a peaceful conquest. Before their footsteps, barbarism changed to civilization. Where once was desert sage brush, the sunshine and shadows chase each other over billowy fields of grain; the howl of the coyote has given way to the lowing of the herds; the habitation of wild beasts has been replaced by the vineclad cottage, and the cry of the wild man by the song of the mother as she rocks her babe to sleep at eventide; and today from over the length and breadth of this commonwealth, from where the wild sunflower tints the hillsides by beautiful Lake Chelan to where the mighty Columbia rolls its waters to the sea, a million and a half of happy and contented people lift up their hearts today and join with us in paying this tribute of respect to the memory of these men, who, as private citizens and as members of your honorable body, had a part in the building of this empire.

We honor their memory today not only because of the greatness of their achievements as this world measures them, but because they were also true to the lesser obligations of citizenship. We exalt their memory because in striving for the bright flower high up on fame's mountainside they did not scorn the daisies and violets that others trod beneath their feet, and I am constrained to believe that in passing judgment upon their earthly deeds He who said "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these, my brethren, ye did it unto me," will surely note that the opportunity to offer a kindly word or a pleasant smile to cheer some weary traveler on his way, brought them more of pleasure than the loud acclaim of the populace in recognition of some private or public success.

Yesterday they were with us, laboring for the upbuilding of the commonwealth that they loved so well, but, weary for the moment with the labors of the day, they bade us care for the garden a little while, and walking in the restful shadows of the evening, crossed the boundary between the finite and the infinite, and are lost to us for the time in the boundless realm of immortality. We are standing today in the shadow of the mystery of the ages. We have knowledge only of the mortal. It yet remains for us to know the mystery of immortality. Beyond the veil that closed and hid them from our sight, it has not as yet been given us to go, but when some angel hand draws back the curtains from the windows of our souls, we shall look out and see the boatman come to ferry us across that silent, sunless sea, ne'er darkened by returning sail save one; then, and not until then, shall we understand the mysteries of the great beyond.

"They died, ah they died, and we things that are now,
That walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
And find in their dwellings a transient abode,
Meet the things that they met on their pilgrimage road."

And let us meet them as they met them, with hearts devoted to the interests of our state and the great republic of which it is a part, for we can best honor their memory by dedicating our lives to the ideals of citizenship to which their lives were dedicated, in order that the watch fires of civil and religious liberty, whose smoldering embers were fanned to a tiny flame by the April breeze at Concord and consecrated as an eternal fire by the sufferings amid the snows of Valley Forge, may continue to burn brightly upon the altar of our country, a beacon light to the oppressed of every clime, and to the weary nations of the earth a star that leads to better things, to the end that when there falls across the little landscape of our lives that shadow which must some time darken the pathway of all, and we give over into the keeping of the generations yet to be the destinies of this great republic, that then, as now, every youth in this land, regardless of his creed or station in society, may truthfully say,

"It matters little where I was born,
Or if my parents were rich or poor,
Whether they shrank at the cold world's scorn.
Or walked in the pride of wealth secure.

But whether I live an honest man,
And hold my integrity firm in my clutch,
Brother, I tell you as plain as I can,
It matters much."

Rev. N. M. Temple pronounced the benediction.

At 3:05 p. m., on motion of Mr. Morrison, the joint session dissolved.

The Senate reconvened in the Senate chamber at 3:10 p. m., and on motion of Senator Boner, adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Whereas, Certain manufacturers of condensed milk are manufacturing and offering for sale as condensed milk products containing other substances than pure milk or cream, and are adulterating the condensed milk manufactured and offered for sale by them, with vegetable oils and other substances and are enabled thereby to sell said products so manufactured at a less price than pure condensed milk to the detriment of the dairy interests of the country and particularly of the State of Washington, and

Whereas, Said adulterated condensed milk is being transported between the states and shipped into the State of Washington and sold in unjust competition with the pure condensed milk manufactured in this state.

Therefore, Your memorialists respectfully petition the Congress of the United States to enact laws either prohibiting the adulteration of condensed milk with vegetable oils or other substances or requiring all condensed milk containing vegetable oils or any other substances than pure milk or cream to be plainly marked upon each and every package thereof when offered for sale with the words "Adulterated milk," or other words indicating to the purchaser that the contents of such package is not pure milk or cream, and requiring the payment of a revenue tax upon all condensed milk containing vegetable oils or any other substances than pure milk or cream.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The hour of 3 o'clock having arrived, the Senate took up for consideration Senate bill No. 61.

Senator Wells moved to strike sections 1 and 2 of the bill and substitute in lieu thereof the following:

Section 1. That section 6782 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington be amended to read as follows:

Section 6782. The commissioner of public lands of the State of Washington is hereby authorized to execute leases and contracts for the mining of gold, silver, copper, lead, cinnabar, or other valuable minerals, except coal, from any land now belonging to the state or from any lands the minerals of which have been reserved by the state or from any lands to which the state may hereafter acquire title subject to the conditions hereinafter provided.

Sec. 2. That section 6783 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington be amended to read as follows:

Section 6783. Any citizen of the United States finding precious minerals upon any lands now or hereafter belonging to the State of Washington or upon any lands which the State of Washington may have sold and reserved the mineral rights therein, may apply to the commissioner of public lands for a lease of any amount not to exceed eighty (80) acres, for prospecting purposes, such application to be made by legal subdivisions according to the public land surveys.

Senator Taylor arose and stated that the amendment was out of order, for the reason that the matter therein contained was not within the scope of the original bill.

The president ruled the point well taken.

On motion of Senator Wells, the bill was re-referred to the Committee on State, Granted, School and Tide Lands.

GENERAL FILE.

House joint memorial No. 5, by Messrs. Gauntlett, Zednick and Houser, "Urging Congress to pass such legislation as will bring about compulsory military service," was read third time.

On motion of Senator Groff, the memorial was amended by striking the word "service" wherever it appears in the memorial, and by substituting in lieu thereof the word "training."

Former Senator George Hurley, from Okanogan county, was invited to a seat beside the president.

Senator Johnson moved to amend the memorial as follows:

After the word "about" in the last line, strike the remainder of the sentence and substitute the following:

"A survey, and preparation for mobilization in case of war, all the resources of the United States, and provide for universal training of our youth, in military science or callings necessary for military proficiency.

The motion carried.

The secretary called the roll on the final passage of House joint memorial No. 5, as amended, and it passed the Senate by the following vote:

Those voting aye were: Senators Barnes, Boner, Brown, Burton, Carlyon, Chase, Cleary, Cornwell, Davis (Walter S.), Fairchild, Groff, Johnson, Jones, Judd, Kleeb, Kuykendall, Landon, Metcalf, Morthland, Myers, Nichols, Palmer, Phipps, Smith (A. A.), Smith (Joseph H.), Steiner, Taylor, Wray—28.

Those voting nay were: Senators Brand, Cox, Faulkner, French, Ferryman, Hall, Hutchinson, Karshner, McMillan—9.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Davis (Lincoln), Ghent, Iverson, Stevenson, Wells—5.

Substitute House concurrent resolution No. 8, by Mr. Elliott, "Relating to changing the name of Mount Rainier," was the next order of business on today's calendar.

Senator Palmer arose and stated that the consideration of substitute House concurrent resolution No. 8 was out of order, on the ground that it purported to be a resolution while in truth and in fact it was a memorial.

The president made the following ruling:

Substitute House concurrent resolution No. 8 being under consideration:

Senator Palmer of King county, raised the point of order that the document was not in form a resolution and could not be considered. An examination of the document in question and the record pertaining thereto discloses the fact that the document was received from the House, accompanied by a message of transmission, in which it was stated that the House "has passed substituted House concurrent resolution No. 8 and the same is herewith transmitted." The document is docketed "substitute House concurrent resolution No. 8;" it is entitled on its face "House concurrent resolution." There is no resolving clause or other matter or language which by the most fertile imagination could be construed into a resolution.

On the back of the cover of the document giving its history in the House, it appears that there was a roll call in the House, and the yeas and nays entered, which has given rise to the claim on the part of some of the Senators that the House treated the document as a joint resolution.

The title of the document, together with the message transmitting the same to the Senate, is in language so plain as to leave no ambiguity and nothing to be taken by inference, so that the document stands before this body as a substitute House concurrent resolution.

Rule 8 of the joint rules of this legislature provides that:

"Joint resolutions and memorials * * * up to and including the signing thereof by the presiding officer of each house, shall be treated in all respects as bills."

A bill without an enacting clause would be as much in order as a resolution without a resolving clause.

Rule 33 of the Senate rules provides that resolutions other than joint, shall be treated as motions in all proceedings of the Senate. There is no claim that this document could be treated as a motion.

Chief Justice Marshall, in United States v. Fisher, 2 Cranch 258-386, says:

"Where the mind labors to discover the design of the legislature, it seizes everything from which aid can be derived, and in such case the title claims a degree of notice and will have its due share of consideration."

In Cornwell v. Coyne, 192 U. S. 430, Mr. Justice Brewer says:

"The title of an act is referred to only in cases of doubt or ambiguity."

The form of concurrent resolutions, as recognized by the Congress of the United States and, so far as the chair is advised, of all the states of the union, is

"Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, etc." See vol. 4, Hinds' Precedents, Par. 3378.

The form of a joint resolution, as recognized by the same authorities, is:

"Resolved, by the House of Representatives and the Senate of the State of Washington, that" etc. 4 Hinds' Precedents, par. 3367.

Under the old rules of the House of Representatives of the National Congress, under which joint resolutions were treated as bills and which provided: "Every bill shall be introduced on the report of a committee or by motion for leave," it was held by the speaker, Hon. Linn Boyd of Kentucky, that a resolution could not be amended by inserting before the resolution the words: "Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled," that to so amend the resolution would be in effect the introduction of a joint resolution in a way different from that provided in the rules. 4 Hinds' Precedents, par. 3376.

The same ruling was made in the Thirty-third Congress, where on a point of order being raised, the speaker said:

"This is a simple resolution for the House only and it cannot be converted into a bill." 4 Hinds' Precedents, par. 3377.

The only sources of communication between the two branches of the state legislature are by messages, joint committees, select committees, and conferences. A message is not only the most common method of communication as relates to bills, amendments, resolutions, memorials and actions thereon, but is also the method adopted by the House, and the only method, conveying to the Senate the information of its action on the document now before the Senate. By this message the Senate is bound, so far as regards the position taken by the House upon this document. The House having treated it as a concurrent resolution, the Senate cannot change the action of the House or do anything with a House document contrary to the rules adopted by the House in its control over the document. It therefore follows that the document, not being a resolution, cannot be entertained by the Senate.

It has been suggested by members of the Senate, though this question is not before the chair at this time, that the Senate might change the name of the document to a House memorial and proceed to consider the same. Suffice it to say that this is a House document, that memorials are treated exactly the same as bills, that each class of documents, whether House resolutions, House joint resolutions, House memorials, or House bills, has a separate and distinct current number, and it is not within the power of any Senator to introduce House legislation in the Senate. The changing of the name of this document from a House concurrent resolution to a House memorial would be in effect the introduction of new legislation, and the same would not be in order.

The question of whether or not the Senate might introduce a Senate memorial as a substitute for the pending document is not passed upon, as the same has not been raised.

It follows that the document is a substitute concurrent resolution without any resolving clause, and without any of the forms recognized by parliamentary usages as constituting a resolution, and is therefore not in form for consideration by this body, and the point of order is sustained.

Senator Jones, seconded by Senators Fairchild and Metcalf, appealed from the decision of the chair.

Senator Nichols was called to preside.

The president pro tem. stated the question to be, "Shall the decision of the chair stand as the decision of the Senate?"

A roll call was demanded on the appeal by Senators Taylor, Landon, Carlyon, Iverson, Jones, Davis (W. S.) and Metcalf.

The secretary called the roll, and the decision of the chair was sustained by the following vote:

Those voting aye were: Senators Brand, Brown, Burton, Carlyon, Chase, Cleary, Cornwell, Cox, Faulkner, Ferryman, French, Ghent, Groff, Hall, Iverson, Karshner, Kleebe, Kuykendall, Landon, McMillan, Myers, Nichols, Palmer, Smith (A. A.), Smith (Joseph H.), Steiner, Taylor, Wray—28.

Those voting nay were: Senators Boner, Davis (W. S.), Fairchild, Hutchinson, Johnson, Jones, Judd, Metcalf, Morthland—9.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Barnes, Davis (Lincoln), Phipps, Stevenson, Wells—5.

On motion of Senator Myers, the Committee on Game was given permission to use the Senate chamber this evening for a joint committee meeting.

At 4:35 p. m., on motion of Senator Palmer, the Senate adjourned until tomorrow.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

MORNING SESSION.

OLYMPIA, WASH., Wednesday, February 14, 1917.

Rev. Harry E. Bell offered prayer.

On motion of Senator Smith (A. A.), the reading of yesterday's journal was dispensed with, and it was approved.

On motion of Senator Palmer, the special order to consider Senate joint memorial No. 7 at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon was advanced until 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The secretary read:

SENATE CHAMBER,
February 13, 1917.

To the Honorable the President and Members of the Senate of the State of Washington.

GENTLEMEN: Having been excused from the session on the 2d inst., I have since endeavored to familiarize myself with the general financial conditions of the state, to determine the underlying causes of recent bank failures and, if possible, to qualify myself for the proper presentation of such legislative remedy as may be required.

To these ends, I have endeavored to employ every available source of information to the fullest extent possible with the limited time at my command and in this work have received the heartiest co-operation of all concerned.

It may be stated without question that the banks of this state, as a whole, are in a very satisfactory condition at the present time, much better in fact than has been the case in recent years and no cause for uneasiness exists.

The recent failures are primarily due to improper banking methods, unwise investments, excessive individual loans and general inefficiency on the part of the managing officers and directors of those institutions, and no adequate remedy has existed for the correction of those conditions.

The banks in question have had the constant attention of the bank examiner for some time and no neglect of duty on his part is apparent, considering the improper limitations now imposed on his powers by law.

Nor do I find any cause for criticism of the other banks of Seattle based on their failure to provide funds to keep open the doors of those closed banks.

The recent decision of the supreme court, in the case of Dunlap vs. The Seattle National Bank, Vol. 51, No. 10, Supreme Court advance sheets, has raised the question of fact as to the solvency of an institution so applying for aid, as an important element in determining when such aid is permissible without making the aiding institution liable to criminal prosecution and possible liability to the creditors of the aided institution without limit.

The time granted the associated banks of Seattle for an examination of the affairs of the failed banks in advance of their failure was altogether too short to make an adequate determination as to their solvency, the hasty examination given tending rather to show actual insolvency and any loss occasioned by the withholding of financial support that might prudently have been given is chargeable to the officers of the failed banks who persistently declined to submit their true condition in time to make proffered aid available especially in view of the decision just noted.

The closing of the Broadway Bank was immediately due to their failure to collect the assessment ordered by the bank examiner.

The Northern Bank & Trust Company suffered by reason of its former apparent association of interest with the Broadway Bank, for which it has also been acting as clearing agent.

The German-American with greater confidence in and co-operation with the associated banks could have weathered the crisis that developed.

The Fremont was loaded with non-liquid assets but seemed reasonably safe. Its failure to secure necessary funds to continue was directly due to the fact that the German-American could not keep its doors open another day, ample funds having been made available for it, contingent upon the German-American opening for business that day.

No apprehension need be felt regarding other banks, as the general situation is well in hand, and a closer co-operation of banks generally is noted.

The Federal Reserve Bank at San Francisco has also indicated in a substantial manner its willingness to strengthen the situation, having shipped to this locality approximately six million dollars in cash in three days.

To correct a possible misapprehension, I would state that the state banks, almost without exception, are in position to avail themselves of the rediscount privileges of the national banks because of the fact that any correspondent national bank will freely attend to the rediscounting of their paper with the Federal Reserve Bank.

Herewith I beg to submit a copy of proposed amendments to House bill No. 154, together with some reasons for those amendments, and in conclusion will say that the proposed code with these amendments are the result of earnest protracted effort on the part of the legislative committee of the Washington Bankers' Association, the associated banks of Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane, many other individual bankers, the state bank examiner, the national bank examiner and others, including myself.

It is believed to afford every safeguard that can be established by law, in eliminating incompetency, compelling directors to direct, conforming in so far as possible with the best features of the national law harmonizing our present bank and trust company acts, and providing for adequate examination. Respectfully submitted,

FRANK A. CHASE.

On motion of Senator Palmer, the report of Senator Chase was laid over to be considered in conjunction with Senate joint memorial No. 7.

The secretary read:

SENATE JOINT MEMORIAL NO. 13.

Your memorialists, the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Washington, in legislative session assembled, do most respectfully state, represent and petition as follows:

WHEREAS, The State of Washington has adopted a policy of arterial highway construction, joining highways of other states in a system of national highways; and

WHEREAS, The State of Washington has at great expense constructed, and is further constructing and maintaining such highways; and

WHEREAS, Such highways are not only of great value for commercial purposes of the state and nation, but would, on occasion, become of great value for military purposes; and

WHEREAS, A number of such highways in the State of Washington cross or are located in national forest reserves where the timber at the present time is in its primeval state; and

WHEREAS, A further reservation by Congress reserving from sale all of the standing timber for a reasonable distance on each side of such highways where the same cross or are maintained in such forest reserves, would not only carry out the national policy of establishing parks and playgrounds but would enhance their value for military purposes; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate and House of Representatives of Washington, in legislative session assembled, do hereby respectfully request and petition the Congress of the United States to pass an act reserving from sale all of the standing timber located in national forest reserves, for a distance of at least five hundred (500) feet on each side of any state highway constructed and maintained in such forest reserve by the State of Washington; and be it further

R. A. HUTCHINSON,
Senator 4th Dist.

Senator Ghent moved to amend the bill by striking section 2.

The motion failed to carry.

Senator Smith (A. A.) moved to amend the bill in section 6 of the engrossed bill by striking the words "by the state printer."

Section 17. The power reserved by the people by section 1 of article 2 of the state constitution known as the referendum may be ordered on this act and this act shall not take effect nor be in force if this right is denied the people by any action of any court of this state: Provided, A sufficient number of the people as provided in said amendment to said constitution shall comply with the provisions of said constitution to make a valid referendum petition.

The motion was lost.

Senator Groff moved to amend the bill by adding a new section as follows:

Section 17. This act shall not take effect nor be in force until and unless the same shall be approved by the qualified electors of the state at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, 1918, in accordance with that provision in section 1 of article 2 of the state constitution as amended by the people at the general election in the year 1913, known as the referendum.

The secretary called the roll on the final passage of engrossed House bill No. 4, and it passed the Senate by the following vote:

Those voting aye were: Senators Barnes, Boner, Brand, Brown, Burton, Carlyon, Cleary, Cornwell, Cox, Davis (Walter S.), Fairchild, Faulkner, Ferryman, French, Ghent, Hall, Hutchinson, Iverson, Jones, Judd, Karshner, Kleeb, Kuykendall, Landon, McMillan, Metcalf, Myers, Nichols, Palmer, Phipps, Smith (A. A.), Smith (Joseph H.), Steiner, Taylor, Wells, Wray—36.

Those voting nay were: Senators Chase, Groff, Johnson—3.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Davis (Lincoln), Morthland, Stevenson—3.

When the name of Senator Chase was called, he arose and made the following statement:

"No law can be adequately enforced without general public support. The present law pertaining to intoxicants has that support. House bill No. 4, in my opinion, will fail to receive it, if enacted, and as one who would deeply regret added law breaking and a probable return to less restrictive measures than we now have, and because of the fact that it does not carry provision for its submission to the people although it is designed to supersede the expressed will of the people, I vote 'no'."

When the name of Senator Groff was called, he made the following statement:

"Section 1, article 2 of the constitution may be construed by the court to prevent the people from referring this bill by being considered an act of the legislature for the preservation of the public health; that is my principal reason for voting 'no,' as I do not want to be in a position of denying the people their expression on a measure that was not discussed until the legislature convened. My second reason is that the wet and dry proposition is such a proposition that the people of the entire state are familiar with and this bill for all the reasons stated above should have been referred to the people and by reason of not being submitted, and no provision being made to prevent the courts from preventing the people expressing their opinion is an additional reason why I vote 'no.' I am in entire sympathy with referendum measure No. 3, and would have gladly voted for any measure that would have strengthened and put teeth into the said measure."

When Senator Johnson's name was called, he made the following statement:

"I cannot vote for this bill without a referendum. I made a pledge as a 'dry' satisfactory to the 'drys' when a 'bone-dry' law was unheard of. I said I would not vote to change the policy of an initiative measure enacted by the people. The present law has two principal policies; (1) to abolish the manufacture and sale of liquor in the state; (2) to recognize the personal liberty of a citizen to import under proper regulation a reasonable quantity of liquor for his own use. It would be just as dishonest for me to vote to reverse one policy of the law as the other, without a referendum."

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

On motion of Senator Taylor, the rules were suspended, and engrossed House bill No. 4 ordered transmitted to the House immediately.

A.), Taylor, Wells, Wray—35.

Those voting nay were: Senators French, Hutchinson—2.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Chase, Davis (Lincoln), Smith (J. H.), Steiner, Stevenson—5.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

Senator Landon gave notice that at the proper time he would move to reconsider the vote by which House bill No. 29 passed the Senate.

educating high school pupils from other school districts, creating two classes of school districts for each purpose, providing for a fund and plan of taxation for such reimbursement, fixing requirements for admission to certain high schools, and giving boards of directors power to arrange and pay for transportation of pupils for the purposes of this act," was read third time.

The motion failed to carry.

Senator McMillan moved to strike section 10 of the bill.

The previous question was moved by Senator Taylor, seconded by Senators Boner and Morthland.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR.
OLYMPIA, February 17, 1917.

To the Honorable, the President of the Senate, Olympia, Washington.

GENTLEMEN: I herewith return to your honorable body Senate bill No. 32. This is "An act relating to the state penitentiary, regulating the sale of grain sacks and other fabrics and products manufactured at the state penitentiary, fixing the duties of the state board of control in connection therewith, and amending section 8559-2 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, and declaring an emergency."

Section 1 of this bill is approved; section 2 is vetoed.

Section 2 reads as follows: "This act is necessary for the immediate support of existing public institutions and shall take effect immediately."

Regarding the use of the emergency clause on this particular measure, it is well to consider the purposes of the act so that we may decide upon the necessity of attaching a clause which will cause the act to take effect immediately. Senate bill No. 32 provides a method of distribution of grain sacks and other fabrics and products manufactured at the state penitentiary. The state board of control has already taken action under the existing law providing for the sale and distribution of grain sacks and other fabrics manufactured at the state penitentiary during the present year. The act I have before me was passed for the purpose of making more clear the powers of the board of control in relation to the sale and distribution of the products of the penitentiary. Inasmuch as action has been taken by the board providing for the sale and distribution of these products during the present year and there is but slight difference between the method followed and that provided for in this bill, I cannot see the necessity for this act taking effect immediately. It seems to me that the interests of the state will be properly protected if this bill takes the regular course of measures passed by the legislature and becomes effective ninety days after the close of the present session.

There is nothing in the provisions of the act that makes necessary its use for "the immediate support of existing public institutions," which is the language used in the emergency clause.

I regret that it seems to me to be necessary to veto even a part of a bill passed by your honorable body. I cannot feel, however, that we will be within the constitutional provision relating to the use of an emergency clause in attaching such a clause to this measure.

For the reasons herein given, section 2 of Senate bill No. 32 is vetoed.

Respectfully submitted,
ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

On motion of Senator French, the Governor's veto message, together with the vetoed section of the bill, was referred to the Rules Committee.

On motion of Senator Jones, the rules were suspended and the Senaté returned to the order of business.

On motion of Senator Jones, Senate bills Nos. 158 and 159 were ordered printed.

On motion of Senator Jones, the rules were suspended and Senate bill No. 201 ordered transmitted to the House immediately.

SENATE CHAMBER,
OLYMPIA, WASH., February 16, 1917.

We, your Committee on Public Utilities, to whom was referred Senate bill No. 89, entitled "An act relating to certain carriers for hire upon every public place, street, road and highway, placing such carriers, their conveyances and business under the jurisdiction of the public service commission of the state, imposing certain duties upon such commission, prescribing penalties for its violation, declaring it necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace and safety that it take effect immediately, and providing that it take effect immediately," have had the same under consideration, and we respectfully report the same back to the Senate with the recommendation that it do pass with the following amendments:

In section 1, line 4 of the printed bill, being line 13 of the original bill, insert after the word "transportation" the words "of passengers."

Strike all of section 5.

JESSE S. JONES, Chairman.

We concur in this report: H. D. Taylor, W. W. Brand, F. G. Barnes.

On motion of Senator Jones, the report of the committee was adopted.
Senate bill No. 89, by the Committee on Public Utilities, was read third time.

Senator Iverson moved to amend the bill in section 1, line 11, of the original bill, by striking the words "by steam, gas, electricity, air or other like power."

The motion was lost.

Senator Taylor moved the previous question, seconded by Senators Iverson and Kleeb.

The motion carried.

The secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate bill No. 89, and it passed the Senate by the following vote:

Those voting aye were: Senators Barnes, Boner, Brand, Carlyon, Chase, Cleary, Davis (Lincoln), Fairchild, French, Ghent, Groff, Hall, Hutchinson, Jones, Judd, Kleeb, McMillan, Metcalf, Morthland, Myers, Palmer, Phipps, Smith (A. A.), Smith (Joseph H.), Taylor, Wells, Wray—27.

Those voting nay were: Senators Brown, Burton, Cox, Davis (W. S.), Faulkner, Ferryman, Iverson, Johnson, Karshner, Landon, Nichols, Steiner—12.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Cornwell, Kuykendall, Stevenson—3.

When the name of Senator Phipps was called, he arose and made the following statement:

"In the last two years the jitney bus has shown that it is a legitimate product of commercial progress, and has become such a substantial part of our system of transportation that it should have some definite and reliable rules of regulation upon which the general public may depend for service. Under existing conditions the service, as a whole, is not steady, efficient or reliable.

"I believe that the large cities should have control of the public utilities operating within such cities, but owing to the fact that most of our public utilities are under control of the public service commission it seems unfair to have a part of the competing utilities under one control and other utilities under a separate and different control. I have considered this matter with the public service commission and there appears to be no disposition or intention on the part of that commission to in any way eliminate the jitney bus from the field of transportation, but it is desirous of regulating them fairly so as to elevate the service rather than destroy the utility.

"With the hope and expectation that the public service commission will make and enforce fair and wise rules both for the jitney bus operators and their competitors, and to protect both patrons and pedestrians from injury; and with the further understanding that the bonding of jitney busses will be changed so that they will have an equal and fair opportunity of securing the public by bonds or liability insurance against injury; and realizing the extreme bitter feeling that is being created between the street car employees and the jitney bus men on account of some of the jitney bus operators running their cars just in front of street cars and picking up passengers exactly on the street car schedule, which practice in no way benefits the public but is embarrassing to the public as well as to the jitney bus operators and street car employees; and with the further understanding that the public service commission is to encourage the jitney bus traffic where the public will receive reliable and better service because of the same; and that where such service is had they will require such service, equipment, lighting, seating capacity, and such personal conduct of the operators that will prevent annoyance and embarrassment to patrons, especially to women and children using such service. I vote for Senate bill No. 89."

On motion of Senator Jones, the title of the bill was amended by striking the following:

"Declaring it necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace and safety that it take effect immediately, and providing that it take effect immediately," and striking the comma after the word "commission" and substituting the word "and" therefor and striking the comma after the word "violation" and substituting a period therefor.

There being no objection, the title of the bill, as amended, was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

On motion of Senator Wray, the rules were suspended, and Senate bill No. 89 ordered engrossed and transmitted to the House immediately.

On motion of Senator Morthland, the rules were further suspended, and Senate bill No. 212 ordered engrossed and transmitted to the House immediately.

Senate bill No. 157.

The secretary read:

MR. PRESIDENT: SENATE CHAMBER,
OLYMPIA, WASH., February 13, 1917.

We, a minority of your Committee on Judiciary, to whom was referred Senate bill No. 157, entitled "An act relating to the crime of murder and the punishment therefor, and amending section 2392 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington," have had the same under consideration, and we respectfully report the same back to the Senate with the recommendation that it do not pass.

We concur in this report: William Wray, G. E. Steiner, E. B. Palmer, E. Ben Johnson, D. V. Morthland, James Burton.

On motion of Senator Boner, the majority report of the committee was adopted.

Senate bill No. 157, by Senators Boner, Kuykendall, Phipps, Groff, Taylor, Jones, Carlyon, Cox and Cornwell, was read third time.

Senator Johnson moved to amend the bill by adding a new section to be known as section 2, as follows:

"Sec. 2. This act shall not take effect nor be in force until and unless the same shall be approved by the qualified electors of the state at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, 1918, in accordance with the constitution and laws relating to referendum measures."

Senator Taylor stated that the amendment did not refer the bill to the people, and was out of order.

The chair ruled that the point was not well taken.

A roll call on the motion was demanded by Senators Johnson, Steiner, Cox, Nichols, Kuykendall, Barnes and Smith (A. A.).

A call of the Senate was demanded by Senator Groff, seconded by Senators Hutchinson and Taylor.

The sergeant-at-arms locked the doors of the Senate.

The secretary called the roll, all members being present, except Senator Stevenson, excused.

The secretary called the roll on the amendment offered by Senator Johnson, and it failed to carry by the following vote:

Those voting aye were: Senators Brand, Burton, Davis (W. S.), Ferryman, French, Hutchinson, Iverson, Johnson, Landon, Palmer, Smith (A. A.), Steiner, Wells—13.

Those voting nay were: Senators Barnes, Boner, Brown, Carlyon, Chase, Cleary, Cornwell, Cox, Davis (Lincoln), Fairchild, Faulkner, Ghent, Groff, Hall, Jones, Judd, Karshner, Kleebe, Kuykendall, McMillan, Metcalf, Morthland, Myers, Nichols, Phipps, Smith (Joseph H.), Taylor, Wray—28.

Absent or not voting: Senator Stevenson—1.

Senator Brown moved to amend the bill by striking all of the section after the word "life" in line 27 of the original bill.

Senator Nichols moved as a substitute in line 26 of the original bill strike the word "or" and insert "except when in the judgment of the jury clemency should be extended then," and strike the words "in the discretion of the jury," and strike the comma after the word "life" and substitute a period.

The substitute motion carried.

Senator Ghent moved to amend the bill by striking the words "death or by" in lines 26 and 27 and the amendment made by Senator Nichols.

Senator Metcalf stated that the offered amendment contained the subject matter just acted upon, and was out of order.

The chair held the point well taken.

The president stated that the amendment offered by Senator Nichols and adopted was not properly worded, and Senator Nichols asked the chairman of the Judiciary Committee to properly draw the amendment.

Senator Steiner moved to strike all of the bill after the word "death" in line 26 of the original bill.

Senator Boner moved as a substitute the adoption of the amendment made by Senator Nichols as now drawn, as follows:

Strike the words "or by" in lines 26 and 27 of the original bill, and insert a colon after the word "death" and insert the following: "Provided, That when so directed by the verdict of the jury the punishment shall be" and strike the comma after the word "life" in line 27 of the original bill and substitute a period therefor, and strike the balance of the bill.

Senator Steiner stated that the substitute motion was out of order, for the reason that the Nichols amendment had been adopted.

The chair ruled the point would be well taken except for the fact that the Senate knew that Senators Boner and Nichols were redrawing the amendment when the motion by Senator Steiner was made.

Senator Steiner withdrew his amendment.

The motion by Senator Boner carried.

Senator Steiner moved to strike all of the bill after the word "death" in line 26 of the original bill.

He shall promptly report the result of his examination to the State Treasurer. If the report show that there was on said October 1st, in the reserve fund of any class in cash or at interest a greater sum than the then annuity value of the outstanding pension obligations of that class, the surplus shall be forthwith turned over to the accident fund of that class, but if the report show the contrary condition of any class reserve, the deficiency shall be forthwith made good out of the accident fund of that class. The State Treasurer shall keep accurate account of each class reserve fund and the investment and earnings thereof, and to meet current demands for pension or lump sum payments may, if necessary, make temporary loans to any class reserve fund out of the accident fund for that class, repaying same from the earnings of that reserve fund or from collections of its investments or, if necessary, sales of the same.

Sec. 22. That section 6604-7 of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington be amended to read as follows:

Section 6604-7. In case of death or permanent total disability the monthly payment provided may be converted, in whole or in part, into a lump sum payment (not in any case to exceed $4,000.00) * * * equal or proportionate as the case may be to the value of the annuity then remaining, to be fixed and certified by the State Insurance Commissioner, in which event the monthly payment shall cease in whole or in part accordingly or proportionately. Such conversions may only be made after the happening of the injury and upon the written application of the beneficiary (in case of minor children, the application may be by either parent) to the department, and shall rest in the discretion of the department. Within the rule aforesaid the amount and value of the lump sum payment may be agreed upon between the department and the beneficiary.

Senator Nichols moved to amend the bill in section 1, line 21, of the amendment offered by Senator Chase and adopted by the Senate, being in paragraph (e), by striking the word "or" between the words "bonds" and "capitol" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "issued to take up."

Senator Carlyon moved as a substitute to the motion by Senator Nichols to strike the words "capitol building bonds" in same line.

Senator Carlyon withdrew his motion.

The motion by Senator Nichols carried.

Senator Ghent moved to amend the bill in section 15, line 23, page 18, of the engrossed bill, by striking the word "contracts" and insert the following: "contract with a physician or hospital or both to provide."

The motion failed to carry.

Senator French moved the previous question, seconded by Senators Cox and Taylor.

The motion carried.

The secretary called the roll on the final passage of engrossed House bill No. 117, as amended, and it passed the Senate by the following vote:

Those voting aye were: Senators Barnes, Boner, Brand, Brown, Burton, Carlyon, Chase, Cleary, Cornwell, Cox, Davis (Walter S.), Fairchild, Faulkner, Ferryman, French, Groff, Hall, Hutchinson, Iverson, Johnson, Jones, Judd, Karshner, Kleeb, Kuykendall, Landon, McMillan, Metcalf, Morthland, Myers, Nichols, Palmer, Phipps, Smith (A. A.), Smith (Joseph H.), Steiner, Taylor, Wells, Wray—39.

Voting nay: Senator Ghent—1.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Davis (Lincoln), Stevenson—2.

When the name of Senator Fairchild was called, he arose, and made the following statement:

"In explaining my vote on House bill No. 117, I wish to say that I do not agree altogether with the provisions of the act, inasmuch as I firmly believe that the industries of the state should take care of their injured workmen, the same as they take care of their machinery and equipment. I think the business should pay for the loss of the laborer as well as for the equipment, for I believe that the suffering and anguish incident to an injury is all that the workman should contribute towards this fund, and that the fund should be supported entirely by the industries. However, as I realize that this would be the only first aid bill passed, and it is much better than any bill that has been passed at former sessions of the legislature, therefore, I vote aye on the bill, and I wish this to be placed on the records."

When the name of Senator Faulkner was called, he made the following statement:

"Workmen's compensation acts are based on the theory that the industry should bear the burden of caring for its victims. I am not satisfied with this bill as a first aid measure, because it shifts a large part of the burden from the industry to the workman, but intend to vote for it, because I believe it is better than nothing."

When the name of Senator Ghent was called, he stated:

"It was my intention to vote for this bill in its original form, and I would have voted for it if my amendment had carried. The bill now allows laymen to administer as a physician to injured workmen and I believe will work irreparable injury if this bill carries. I vote 'no'."

Senators Davis (Walter S.) and Johnson made the following statements when their names were called:

"I know the votes were all counted before this bill was ever brought before us and there is no use protesting. I am convinced that this bill is not fair to the laboring man. The employer in being freed from liability for injuries under the present law receives more benefit than the law costs him.

"The bill is from the employers, not a compromise, but merely making such concessions as they deem advisable. I have voted for amendments to make it fairer, but they were defeated. I shall not blame the laboring men if they initiate a fairer bill, but as this is the most the legislature will do, and is better than nothing, in my opinion, I vote 'aye'."

On motion of Senator Chase, the title of the engrossed bill was amended as follows:

In line 6 of the engrossed bill, after the figures "6604-5" insert the figures "6604-7" and strike the following: "and declaring that this act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health and safety, and support of the existing public institutions of the state, and shall take effect immediately."

There being no objection, the title of the bill, as amended, was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

On motion of Senator Chase, the rules were suspended, and engrossed House bill No. 117 was ordered transmitted to the House immediately.

On motion of Senator French, further proceedings under call of the Senate were dispensed with.

Senator Groff moved that when the Senate adjourn that it adjourn until 11:25 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Senator Palmer moved as a substitute that the Senate adjourn until tomorrow at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

The substitute motion carried.

Senator Taylor gave notice that at the proper time he would move to reconsider the vote by which House bill No. 111 passed the Senate.

At 5:05 p. m., on motion of Senator Carlyon, the Senate adjourned until tomorrow.

LOUIS F. HART, President of the Senate.

Senator Iverson explained his vote as follows:

"I have no sympathy with the lawlessness and mob rule of any kind; but in trying to prevent crime, we must not commit a wrong against our cherished principles of freedom of speech and press. I believe this bill is a dangerous measure. I vote no."

Senator Davis (Walter S.) explained his vote as follows:

"In voting 'aye' on Senate bill No. 264 I believe sections 3 and 4 should be stricken."

Senator Faulkner explained his vote as follows:

"I believe this bill contains certain features that are contrary to the provisions of art. 1, amendments to the U. S. constitution. I also believe that all the legislative purposes of this bill are accomplished by sections 2548-9 of Remington's Code and other sections of our penal code. I vote no."

Senator Johnson explained his vote as follows:

"I hope that the Governor will veto sections 3 and 4. While bitterly condemning the gag rule applied by the proponents of this bill cutting off debate by moving the previous question, I believe that the first two sections are needed and vote aye."

Senator Nichols explained his vote thus:

"I believe that a bill adequately prohibiting sabotage should pass as in line 3, section 3. I believe that the bill goes far beyond the requirements of the situation and is likely to cause grave injustice to innocent persons, I reluctantly must vote no."

Senator Smith (Joseph H.) explained his vote as follows:

"I absolutely oppose any measure that would tend to make labor conditions worse, but as I interpret this bill, it does not in any manner interfere with, or deprive organized labor of the right to treat with their employers or to enforce their demands or to have their grievances heard and considered. I vote aye."

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

Such appeals shall have precedence and shall be determined by the said superior court with the least possible delay. An appeal shall lie to the supreme court from the decision of the superior court.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 2, 1917.

To the Honorable, the President of the Senate, Olympia, Washington.

SIR: I have the honor to advise you that the Governor has today vetoed Senate bill No. 240, entitled "An act appropriating the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) or so much thereof as may be necessary for the expenses of the fifteenth legislature.

Respectfully,

IRVIN W. ZIEGAUS,
Secretary to the Governor.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
OLYMPIA, March 2, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington.

GENTLEMEN: I am herewith returning Senate bill No. 240 without my approval. This is "An act appropriating the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) or so much thereof as may be necessary for the expenses of the fifteenth legislature.

At the beginning of the present session a bill appropriating $100,000 for the expenses of the present legislative session was passed by the legislature and approved by me. This appropriation of $100,000 does not include the necessary funds for printing, another bill having been passed appropriating $15,000 for this purpose.

In relation to this deficiency appropriation bill of $10,000 I feel that I ought to call your attention to the fact that at no previous session of the legislature, since the state was organized, has there ever been expended $100,000 for legislative expenses, exclusive of printing. With this bill approved $110,000 would be available for this purpose.

In checking over the figures showing expenses of previous sessions of the legislature I find that in 1897 the amount expended for this purpose was a little over $56,000. In 1899 it amounted to approximately $62,000 and in 1901 to less than $65,000. After that time there was a rapid increase in the expenses of the legislature but at no time has the amount reached $100,000.

In endeavoring to find the cause of the increased cost at the present session of the legislature I have checked over the figures covering its expenses. These vouchers show that there are 98 employees on the House payroll and 52 employees on the Senate payroll. The membership of the House is 97. The membership of the Senate, 42, therefore, the payroll shows that the House has one more employee than there are members in that body and the Senate has ten more employees than its total membership. On the House payroll I find 22 stenographers, 33 clerks—this number not including the special department clerks—9 pages, 5 janitors, 6 doorkeepers, also 2 sergeants-at-arms and one law clerk. The salaries paid to these employees range from $2.00 a day each for the 9 pages up to as high as $6.00 per day for the law clerk and one sergeant-at-arms. The salaries of special clerks and other employees of both the Senate and House, not here enumerated, range from $5.00 per day up as high as $10.00 per day.

The Senate payroll shows 16 stenographers, 1 page at $4.00 per day and 5 pages at $2.00 per day, 3 janitors, 3 doorkeepers and a list of special and regular clerks. In addition to the payrolls are vouchers covering the cost of stationery and other supplies. Up to and including Saturday, February 25th, there had been expended from the $100,000 appropriation, the sum of $83,204.53.

It does not appear to me that there is any good reason why the expenses of the legislature of 1917 should exceed the expenses of the last legislature, nor can I feel that there is need for 150 employees on the legislative payroll.

I am, therefore, returning Senate bill No. 240 with my veto.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST LISTER, Governor.

SENATE BILL NO. 240.

AN ACT appropriating the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary for the expenses of the fifteenth legislature.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Washington:

SECTION 1. That there be and there is hereby appropriated out of the general fund, the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary to be used for the purpose of paying the expenses of the fifteenth legislature of the State of Washington.

The construction of all primary highways shall be under the immediate supervision and control of the state highway board.

That a new section be added to be known as "Sec. 6," to read as follows:

ADDRESS DELIVERED BY PROFESSOR EDMOND S.
MEANY, BEFORE THE JOINT SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE

ADDRESS OF PROF. MEANY.

HOUSE CHAMBER,

OLYMPIA, WASHINGTON, Monday, February 12, 1917.

The joint legislative session was called to order by Lieutenant-Governor Louis F. Hart at 2 o'clock p. m.

He introduced Professor Edmond S. Meany, of the University of Washington, who addressed the assembly as follows:

Mr. President, Members of the Legislative Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Permit me to congratulate the legislature of the State of Washington on the continued observance of this day and to thank you for the honor of being invited into this presence.

In mid-April, 1865, there was begun a long sad journey from Washington to Springfield. In sunlight, in twilight, and by the flare of torches, Lincoln's funeral was gazed upon by more tear-dimmed eyes than has any other procession in human history. Walt Whitman was among the mourners. He poured out his soul in the poem "When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom'd," which Swinburne has called the most magnificent nocturne in the English language. Fifty years after that solemn procession an echo of the event and the poem was heard here in the far Northwest:

Once more, O heart, caress this humble bush
And swing thy gates to gleam of western star,
To haunting lure of perfume calling far,
When falls the cool of fourth-month evening hush.
Dare I intrust thy strength, O mem'ring rush
To cleanly leap each self-love ling'ring bar
Athwart thy wonted path lest it should mar
That distant song of solemn, plaintive thrush?
Ah, wide the miles and deep the flood of years,
Yet hour, and star, and bush are still the same!
Behold, great love this lilac sprig to fame
Has linked: these dripping gems, a poet's tears!
O Whitman, see, another spirit hears
And plucks a flower in thy loved Lincoln's name!

Four poor boys have risen to the presidency in American history. These were Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Johnson and James A. Garfield. For a long time it was the custom to paint the lowly homes of these boys, and especially that of Lincoln, in darkest hues in order that the final contrast would be the greater. Lincoln's boyhood home was poor and humble but not more abject than many others. There are many still living on the shores of Puget Sound who remember the days of the log cabins here and the children from those homes have often graced these very legislative halls with their rugged honesty and lofty purpose.

An Arabian proverb says:

"That form of speech is best which makes of the ear an eye."

It will be my endeavor, by bringing before you his own words and accounts of his own deeds, to help you see for a few moments the real Abraham Lincoln.

In 1859 he sent to his friend Jesse W. Fell, his autobiography, the major part of which is as follows:

"My parents were both born in Virginia, of undistinguished families—second families perhaps I should say. Mother, who died in my tenth year, was of a family of the name of Hanks, some of whom now remain in Adams, and others in Macon county, Illinois.

"My paternal grandfather, Abraham Lincoln, emigrated from Rockbridge county, Virginia, to Kentucky, about 1781 or 1782, where, a year or two later, he was killed by Indians—not in battle, but by stealth, when he was laboring to open a farm in the forest. His ancestors, who were Quakers, went to Virginia from Berks county, Pennsylvania. An effort to identify them with the New England family of the same name amounted to nothing more than a similarity of Christian names in both families, such as Enoch, Levi, Mordacai, Solomon, Abraham and the like.

"My father, at the death of his father, was but six years of age, and he grew up literally without education. He removed from Kentucky to what is now Spencer county, Indiana, in my eighth year.

"We reached our new home about the time the state came into the Union. It was a wild region, with many bears and other wild animals still in the woods.

"There I grew up."

Some writers in their quest for deep contrast have gone so far as to call in question the character of Lincoln's mother. A few years ago, Colonel Henry Watterson of Kentucky gave an address on Lincoln before the University of Washington. As he concluded, the late Governor John H. McGraw said to him:

"Colonel, the last time I saw you you told me you were going to write a book on Lincoln. I have been waiting for that book. When will it appear?"

"Yes," replied Colonel Watterson, "I did intend to write such a book. I gathered my papers and documents and went to Geneva, Switzerland, for a quiet place to write. A cablegram called me home and before I could return to my task, a girl had given us a life of Lincoln. It is the best life of him yet published and my book will not be written."

Those who knew the facts regretted that decision. Mr. Watterson, as a young newspaper man, was on the platform at Lincoln's first inaugural and was about to receive the tall silk hat when the President arose to take the oath of office. A hand reached past him and Stephen A. Douglas added to his stature by holding his old rival's hat during that ceremony. From such memories as that, Mr. Watterson could write a most intimate and valuable book on Lincoln. He has chosen, instead, to give high praise to the work of Ida M. Tarbell. Among other valuable services she has ended the cavilling about Lincoln's mother by carefully tracing the records of her marriage and the birth of her son. If other evidence were needed, find it in the sorrow when the boy helped his father to fashion the rude coffin and to bury the mother in a grove near the cabin. Weeks afterward the boy walked miles to overtake a minister of the Gospel who was persuaded to come to that grove and offer a prayer over the grave.

The father married again and the boy gave his new mother a full measure of filial love. He worked on the home farm until of age when he "struck out for himself." The greatest things of which he stood in need was a pair of trousers. A neighboring widow needed fence rails. He agreed to split so many rails per yard of home-spun that would go into a new pair of trousers. We do not know how many rails he split in that bargain but it must have been a large pile for he was a very tall man.

There followed soon afterwards his famous flatboat trip to New Orleans. The most impressive thing he saw in this trip to the outside world was a slave market. A girl was offered for sale. The black mother sat near, her face bathed in tears while men pressed fingers in the flesh of the girl and called out bids. Lincoln hurried back to the flatboat he had brought from the free soil of the north. Raising his arm toward the stars and with an awful oath he exclaimed, "If I ever get a chance to hit this thing, I'll hit it hard."

Returning to Illinois he became a clerk in a store at New Salem. Among his experiences of young manhood there were his frequent efforts at speech-making. On one of these occasions the school teacher approached him and said that he had made an interesting talk but that he seemed to be deficient in grammar.

"What is grammar?" asked Lincoln.

At the very time when that significant question was being asked on the American frontier, a young man of equal age, William E. Gladstone, was graduating from Oxford, a double-first, having obtained highest honors in two great subjects of learning. Search your memories and see if you can recall one expression from the highly cultured and famous Gladstone that will compare with the close of Lincoln's second inaugural.

The school teacher told young Lincoln about the copy of Kirkham's Grammar he had seen in a neighboring farmer's home. The book was borrowed and after a few weeks the imperfections of Lincoln's grammar had vanished. In the same way he later taught himself surveying and law.

When the Black Hawk Indian war broke out, Lincoln, for the only time in his life, resorted to personal revenge. While working in a logging camp, the boss was going to buy a cant-hook. Lincoln agreed to save the expense of two dollars by extra work if the two dollars were paid to him. He performed the work but the boss refused the extra two dollars. That boss wanted to become captain of the company being organized for the war. Lincoln ran against him and won. How little he then knew about war is revealed by his own account of trouble in marching his company toward a gate in a fence.

"I could not for the life of me remember the proper word of command for getting my company end-wise, so it could get through the gate; so as we came near I shouted:

"This company is dismissed for two minutes, when it will fall in again on the other side of the gate!"

As New Salem declined and his business enterprises failed he tried to resign the postmastership. His resignation was not accepted when he moved to Springfield. Some time later an inspector hunted him up as a defaulter. The inspector was taken to his room and was handed a little bag. Its contents were counted and were found to be the exact amount due and no doubt the identical money received in the defunct postoffice. That was only one of many instances of Lincoln's absolute honesty. He would starve rather than use money not his own.

His days as a circuit-riding lawyer were filled with incidents of interest and of importance in his evolving character. Four times he was elected to the Illinois legislature and he became a shrewd exponent of the rude politics of that time. In one contest his opponent posed as a working man and held out calloused hands in pleading for votes. Lincoln slipped up behind the speaker and dextrously ripped open his buttoned coat. The crowd laughed and that opponent was ridiculed to defeat as "ruffle-shirt Taylor."

On another occasion he was shown about town before his meeting and for the first time in his life he saw a lightning rod. The fine house was occupied by a man who was known as the "Silver-tongued Orator." He had changed from Whig to Democrat and had got a good public office through the change. Later, while Lincoln was addressing his audience the orator paused and, mounting the platform, said he was sorry but he would have to take "this young man down a peg or two." He then gave a Democratic speech and Lincoln's friends were grieved as he slunk to the back of the platform. When the orator had finished, Lincoln stepped forward and said:

"I am not so young in years as I am in the tricks of politics, but live long or die young, I would rather die now than to change my politics for a lucrative position and then put up a lightning rod to protect my guilty conscience from an angry God."

The meeting exploded. Lincoln was carried from the platform on triumphant shoulders and, of course, he won the votes of that district.

A painful but very human incident occurred in Lincoln's life just before his marriage. Mary Todd, a brilliant young lady, visiting in Springfield was courted by a number of young men, including Stephen A. Douglas. She was won by Lincoln but the engagement was broken and Lincoln referred gloomily to the "fatal first of January, 1841." One day the editor of the local paper approached Lincoln in great excitement.

"Shields threatens," said he, "to shoot my head off unless I tell who wrote that poem I published about him."

"Well, why don't you tell him and thus save your head?"

"Why Mary Todd wrote the poem."

"Mary Todd?"

"Yes."

"Then you go tell him that Abraham Lincoln wrote it."

Having settled that matter, Lincoln mounted the waiting horse and rode out on the circuit. He was followed by the angry Shields who challenged him to a duel. Lincoln, being the challenged party, had the right to choose the weapons, and he chose broad swords. The duel was prevented even after the party had reached the ground selected. Mary Todd must have heard all about this incident. She and Lincoln were married not long afterwards, on November 24, 1842.

Not much need be said of Lincoln's one term in Congress except to recall the fact that the Whig party was successful in electing its national ticket and he became a candidate for the position of commissioner of the general land office. He was unsuccessful in that but was offered the first governorship of the newly organized Territory of Oregon. He declined that office and retired from politics to devote himself more completely to the practice of law. His business prospered. He was called into a number of large cases, the most important of which was the McCormick

Reaper case, tried in Cincinnati in 1855. His client also engaged Edwin M. Stanton of Pennsylvania. After all his preparation, Lincoln was not allowed to take part in the trial. He was deeply humiliated.

The Kansas-Nebraska legislation drew him once more into politics. He was chosen as the new Republican party's candidate to oppose Stephen A. Douglas for the senatorship. His "House Divided Against Itself" speech marks his transition from a politician to a statesman. The most remarkable intellectual tourney in our history was the Lincoln-Douglas debate. At the Springfield debate, on July 17, 1858, Lincoln gave us a fine picture of the two contestants as follows:

"There is another disadvantage under which we labor, and to which I will ask your attention. It arises out of the relative positions of the two persons who stand before the state as candidates for the Senate. Senator Douglas is of world-wide renown. All the anxious politicians of his party, or who have been of his party for years past, have been looking upon him as certainly, at no distant day, to be the President of the United States. They have seen in his round, jolly, fruitful face, post-offices, land-offices, marshalships, and cabinet appointments, chargeships and foreign missions, bursting and sprouting out in wonderful exuberance, ready to be laid hold of by their greedy hands. And as they have been gazing upon this attractive picture so long, they cannot, in the little distraction that has taken place in the party, bring themselves to give up the charming hope; but with greedier anxiety they rush about him, sustain him, and give him marches, triumphal entries, and receptions beyond what even in the days of his highest prosperity they could have brought about in his favor. On the contrary, nobody has ever expected me to be President. In my poor, lean, lank face nobody has ever seen that any cabbages were sprouting out."

Within two years of that debate the two men contended for the higher office of President. The campaigns for the nomination and the election were filled with misgivings and with excitement. Lincoln was fully recognized now as a national figure. Sketches of his life and photographs of him were sought on all sides. One photographer, Joseph Hill, carried his camera from Galesburg to Springfield and took four pictures. Three were successful. One was discarded and put with scraps in the woodshed. A fire burned the studio and the discarded print was all that Hill had. He saved it until on his ninetieth birthday, when from his new home in North Yakima, Washington, he gave it to the world—another portrait of Lincoln.

The outcome of that great campaign of 1860 is well known and still there are but few who have realized the strain on the man between his election and his inauguration. The bitterness of the contest made it sure that any words spoken by Lincoln would be distorted by one side or the other. He therefore remained silent at his home in Springfield. South Carolina did not wait for the inauguration. Her ordinance of secession was passed on December 20, 1860. Lincoln was powerless to prevent that action and could only wait in silence. Six other cotton states joined South Carolina and Lincoln did not speak. President Buchanan tried to relieve Fort Sumpter but the "Star of the West" was fired upon from shore and left. Two southern members of Buchanan's cabinet were using their positions to send arms from the north to the south. The President-elect was still silent. Senator Crittenden of Kentucky offered a compromise and Virginia called a conference. Lincoln hoped for results that did not come and was silent at Springfield.

The time came for him to break that strain of silence. He must begin the journey to Washington for the inauguration. On reaching the rear platform of the train he turned to face the crowd of men and boys. There they stood in the fast falling rain while with choking voice he addressed them:

"My friends: No one, not in my situation, can appreciate my feeling of sadness at this parting. To this place, and the kindness of these people, I owe everything. Here I have lived a quarter of a century, and have passed from a young to an old man. Here my children have been born, and one is buried. I now leave, not knowing when or whether ever I may return, with a task before me greater than that which rested upon Washington. Without the assistance of that Divine Being who ever attended him, I cannot succeed. With that assistance, I cannot fail. Trusting in Him who can go with me, and remain with you, and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well. To His care commending you, as I hope in your prayers you will commend me, I bid you an affectionate farewell."

His lofty patriotism was revealed in a number of addresses as he traveled toward Washington. He still clung to the hope that war could be averted. This is shown in the pathetic eloquence at the end of his inaugural address:

"I am loath to close. We are not enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break, our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriotic grave to every loving heart and hearthstone all over this broad land will swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

Events moved swiftly toward a fulfillment of his oath on the flatboat at New Orleans. He wrote the proclamation of emancipation and submitted it to his cabinet on July 22, 1862. Seward suggested that it might be considered a last shriek in time of defeat. He had better wait until the armies had won a victory. He acted on that advice and though the cause of freeing the slaves was deeply burned into his soul he showed the high quality of his statesmanship in his well known letter to Horace Greeley:

"...I would save the Union. I would save it the shortest way under the Constitution. The sooner the national authority can be restored, the nearer the Union will be 'the Union as it was.' If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time save slavery, I do not agree with them. If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time destroy slavery, I do not agree with them. My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union...."

Of course the editor was not told that the proclamation of emancipation was waiting in the President's desk. Another incident of this time shows Lincoln's kindly but keen appreciation of human qualities. A delegation of progressive Quakers called to urge him to free the slaves. He talked with them in tones similar to those in the Greeley letter. Then an old-fashioned father and mother Quaker called on a similar errand. He took them into his office and showed them the precious proclamation. He told them why it was being held. They went home and told their neighbors to pray for the Union all was well with the President.

It may bring the man closer to our view to mention an incident with local significance. At the University of Washington we have a "Governors' Grove" in which are planted memorial maples to honor those who have been Governors of Washington. President Lincoln appointed William Pickering to be War Governor of Washington Territory. His memorial tree was planted by a grandson who said that his grandfather went on a visit from Olympia to Washington. After listening to the Governor, Lincoln walked back and forth for a time and then said:

"I was just wondering how many ralls I could split from one of those big Puget Sound cedars you've been telling me about."

Of all the tests of Lincoln's greatness under the cruel stress of war not one is more sure than the strong but tender language with which he closes his second inaugural address:

"Fondly do we hope—fervently do we pray—that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondman's two hundred and fifty years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid by another drawn with the sword, as was said three thousand years ago, so still it must be said, 'The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.'"

"With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow, and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations."

The same tenderness was revealed again and again in his acts as well as his words. After he had spoken that beautiful little classic at the burial ground of Gettysburg he was taken along the ridge to the spot where now stands the great open book of bronze to mark the "High Tide of the Confederacy." He was looking across the field so recently strewn with Confederate dead. Some one touched his elbow and said:

"Think, Mr. President, of the men who held these heights on that day."

"Yes, think of the men who held these heights," said Lincoln, still looking across that field, "but O, think also of our brothers in gray who stormed these heights."

There are among the archives of Washington stacks of pardons signed by Lincoln. "I can fight through the days," said he, "but O, the nights." He often declared that he could sleep better if he could think of some tired boy that he had saved from being shot for falling asleep at his post.

One day when walking through a hospital, an officer stopped him at a door—"Don't go in there, Mr. President, there are only Rebels in that ward."

"Don't say Rebels, they are Confederate soldiers." He went through the ward with kind words for all the men and boys. A few days afterwards those cots shook with grief when it was announced that their great friend was dead.

Lincoln's attitude toward his cabinet is best shown by the cases of Seward and Stanton. Seward's famous letter in which he volunteered to furnish a policy for the administration was answered with such firmness and such kindness that he awakened once for all to Lincoln's true greatness. Both letter and reply were sealed in Lincoln's keeping and were not made known until both men were dead.

Stanton had been Secretary of War for a time in Buchanan's cabinet. He had there shown real ability, but he was a strong Democratic partisan. In one of his speeches he had declared, "Why do they send Du Chaillu to Africa to study the chimpanzee when we have such a fine specimen of the ape in the White House?" He had also been in that law case where Lincoln was humiliated.

In Lincoln's first cabinet, the war portfolio had been given to Simon Cameron of Pennsylvania. In the first months of the war great corruption in contracts were charged and a change became necessary. Stanton was suggested. Lincoln was great but he was also human and there must have swept through him a quiver of resentment. But he soon declared, "If Edwin M. Stanton will accept a position in my official family, he certainly will have the invitation to do so."

Stanton went to Washington to demean himself by working under a monkey. He was not long in finding the great heart of Lincoln. When the gloom of that mid-April night shook the Nation, Stanton hastened to the bedside of the dying President. As the spark of life fled, Stanton looked up through his tears—"Now, now he belongs to the ages!"

JOINT RULES OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.
SESSION OF 1917.

CONFERENCE AND FREE CONFERENCE, COMMITTEES ON.

Rule 1. In every case of an amendment of a bill or joint or concurrent resolution, agreed to in one house, dissented from in the other and not receded from by the one making the same, such house shall appoint a committee to confer with a like committee to be appointed by the other, and the committee so appointed shall meet at a convenient hour, to be agreed upon by their respective chairmen, and shall confer upon the differences between the two houses as indicated by the amendment made in one and rejected in the other, and report as early as convenient the result of their conference to their respective houses. If after such a report the two houses shall disagree upon the recommendations of the reporting committees as to their differences between the two houses, a committee of free conference shall be appointed, to whom the whole subject matter embraced in the bill or resolution shall be committed, and the committee of free conference may report by new bill or resolution, or otherwise, and bills or resolutions so reported shall be treated as amendments, unless such bills or resolutions are comprised entirely of original matter, in which case they shall receive the treatment required in the respective houses for original bills or resolutions, as the case may be.

MESSAGES.

Rule 2. Messages from the Senate to the House of Representatives shall be delivered by the secretary or assistant secretary, and messages from the House of Representatives to the Senate shall be delivered by the chief clerk or assistant clerk, who shall be announced by the doorkeeper, enter within the bar, announce or deliver his message.

BILLS; FINAL ACTION ON, HOW COMMUNICATED.

Rule 3. Each house shall communicate its final action on any bill or resolution, or matter in which the other may be interested, in writing, signed by the secretary or clerk of the house from which such notice is sent.

ENROLLED BILLS.

Rule 4. After a bill shall have passed both houses, it shall be duly enrolled by the enrolling clerk of the house in which it originated, and it shall be examined by the enrolling committee of such house, who shall carefully compare the enrollment with the engrossed bill as passed, correcting any errors that may be discovered in the enrolled bill, after which the bill shall be signed by the presiding officer, in open session, of each house, first in the house in which it originated; whereupon, the secretary of the Senate, or the chief clerk of the House, shall present the same to the Governor, taking his receipt therefor.

GENERAL BUDGET.

Rule 5. No amendment to the general appropriation bill, commonly known as the budget, adding any new item or items thereto not incorporated in the bill as reported by the Committee on Appropriations, shall be adopted, except by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members elected to each house.

DOCUMENTS TO BE TRANSMITTED WITH BILLS.

Rule 6. Each house shall transmit to the other all documents on which any bill or resolution may be founded.

VETOED BILLS.

Rule 7. The veto message of the Governor, accompanying any bill passed by the Legislature, shall, together with the bill vetoed, be read in the house in which it originated. It shall then be in order to proceed to the reconsideration of the bill, or to postpone its consideration to a day certain. A veto message and a bill, or the message alone, may be referred and the bill laid on the table. The main question in the consideration of the vetoed bill is, "Shall the bill pass notwithstanding the veto of the Governor?" If two-thirds of the members present vote "aye," the bill shall be sent to the other house, together with the message of the Governor, for its action. The merits of the bill may be debated before the vote is taken, but the vote on a vetoed bill cannot be reconsidered.

JOINT RESOLUTIONS.

Rule 8. Joint resolutions and memorials addressed to Congress, or either house thereof, or to the President of the United States, or to the head of any of the national departments, or proposing amendments to the state constitution, up to and including the signing thereof by the presiding officer of each house, shall be treated in all respects as bills.

PRINTING AUTHORITY OF JOINT COMMITTEE.

Rule 9. The standing Committees on Printing of the two houses shall be a joint standing committee, who shall examine all matters proposed to be printed by concurrent order, and shall report what part of such matter is needful to print, but no other printing shall be ordered except by a concurrent resolution passed by both houses. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House to compare the bills introduced in each house before printing, and such bills as are introduced in both houses and are of the same wording shall only be printed in one house.

SPECIAL ORDER.

RULE FOR DRAWING BILLS.

JOINT COMMITTEE MEETINGS.

Rule 13. Whenever any standing committee of either house shall desire to arrange for a public hearing upon any subject of legislation pending before such committee, it shall be the duty of the chairman of such committee to consult with the chairman of the corresponding committee of the other house and endeavor to arrange a hearing by the joint committees of the two houses.

He shall sign all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by order of the Senate, all of which shall be attested by the secretary. He shall have general control of the Senate chamber and lobby, and have the right to name any senator to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment, nor authorize the senator so substituted to sign any document requiring the signature of the president.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

Rule 4. Upon the organization of the Senate the members shall select one of their number as president pro tem., who shall have all the power and authority, and who shall discharge all the duties of the Lieutenant Governor acting as president during his absence or inability to discharge the duties of his office.
